Bond Vote May 2

City council members Monday night set May as the tentative date for a revenue bond issue election for the purchase of the Missouri Utilities Company facilities in Sikeston.

City officials and the utility company officials agreed on a contract price of $950,000 for the purchase of transmission lines and facilities at a meeting in Cape Girardeau Feb. 6.

The contract, has not been signed. The company must obtain the permission of the Missouri Public Service Commission in Jefferson City and has asked the city to have representatives at the hearing to assure the PSC that city facilities have the capacity to serve the town.

The hearing is expected to be held in a few weeks, and the contract is expected to be signed in March.

The purchase of the facilities also is contingent on a revenue bond issue being approved by Sikeston voters.

Council members discussed the contract terms with members of the board of public works.

An election date for the election was the main issue discussed. Officials wanted to be sure the election date did not interfere or conflict with other elections for school board members and bonds, the city council election April 4, or the Associated Natural Gas Franchise election in August.

Six Bands to Matthews Event

MATTHEWS -- The central division of the Southeast Missouri Junior High Band Festival will be held Thursday.

Six bands will take part in the day's clinic sessions and will perform for the public at 7 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door.

The bands attending will include Sikeston's 8th grade band, Charleston's junior high band, East Prairie's junior high band, Matthews junior band, Oran and Doniphan school bands.

13 Charged With Speeding; TV Set Taken

Thirteen Sikeston residents were arrested on Murray Lane and Tanner street Monday and charged with speeding, police reported:

Lonnie Biggs, 126 Sixth; Lucien Stoner, 706 Hickory; Naomi Caudle, 209 Mill Row; David Laird, 712 East Gladys, and Mary C. Moore, 822 William.

Also charged with speeding are: John Scarbrough, 611 Carroll; Commodore York, route four, Sikeston; James R. Robinson, 705 Allen; Jerry W. Helmes, route two, Sikeston; Jerry M. McMackin, 219 West Gladys, and Bill L. Munger, 840 East Tanner.

Three persons were charged with driving without a city automobile license: Eddie Dunn, 834 East Kathleen, Melvin Taber, 403 Ruth, and Donald Knotts, 666 Park.

A portable television valued at about $125 was reported stolen from the Rail Haven Motel, 1701 East Malone, early Monday morning by a couple who had rented the room. Police are investigating.

Tommy Helms, St. Louis, was charged by police Monday with peace distrubance on West Malone.

James Applewhite, 333 Luther, was charged late Monday with curfew violation.

House Votes Pay Raise

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Missouri House members voted themselves a pay raise today by passing a bill that would increase their salaries from $4,800 to $9,000 a year.

The House speaker would be raised to $12,000.

It passed by a vote of 92 to 68, although many rural members voiced opposition to the size of the increase.

Earlier this month, Rep. Don Kennedy, D-Nevada, introduced a resolution that would have set up an independent commission to study legislative pay and recommend a figure.

He said today the commission would have time to make its study and report to the House by mid-May and still give the legislature time to act.

Two of the governor's major school bills moved ahead in the Senate Monday and one passed the House.

Passed and sent to the Senate 144-10, was a bill to provide state aid to kindergartens at an estimated cost of $5,162,100 the first year.

The Senate advanced a similar bill to position for passage on a 31-1 vote.

Also moved ahead was a bill to liberalize the school foundation program formula by $9,975,000 a year.

But one to allow fast growing districts to count current year estimated attendance in figuring state aid, instead of last year's actual figures, ran into trouble and had to be laid over.

The House also gave first round approval to a bill to extend liquor sales to 1:30 a. m. Sunday on a statewide basis instead of the Saturday midnight closing required outside of Kansas City and St. Louis.

But a bill recommended by the governor to increase maximum unemployment compensation payments to one-half the average weekly wage in the state encountered opposition. It was finally advanced, however, on a close vote.

Monday night the House chamber and the Capitol halls were jammed with 15 busloads of people from Kansas City and St. Louis. They came to urge support of a bill recommended by the governor to let unemployed fathers live at home and still allow the family to get aid to dependent children.

Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter said the present law is a failure and often tends to keep families apart instead of together.

No immediate action was taken. Similar bills have run into strong opposition in the Senate in the past.

Earlier Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Clayton, sought to have a workman's compensation bill returned to the House on grounds seven St. Louis Democratic representatives who live outside their districts had voted for it illegally.

Jones' motion was overruled on the theory that the House is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members.

Jones said he wanted his motion on record so the question could be tested in the courts.

Bullet Fatal To Former Bell Citian

ST. LOUIS -- James Griffin, 20, formerly of Bell City, was accidentally shot and killed by his brother, Ronald, 26, while the two were cleaning a 22-caliber revolver, at their apartment, Monday night, police said.

Griffin was pronounced dead on arrival at city hospital.

Born July 26, 1946, at Sikeston, Griffin spent his childhood at Vanduser and moved to Bell City in 1960. He was a 1964 graduate of Bell City high school. He had been employed as a welder for General Metal Products Co.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. "Murphy" Griffin, Bloomfield; three brothers, John and Richard Griffin, Bloomfield, and Ronald Griffin; four sisters, Mrs. Betty Emerson, Morley; Mrs. Sandra Abner, Bell City, and Marsha and Sharon Jane Griffin, Bloomfield, and the paternal grandmother, Mrs. W. J. Griffin, Vanduser.

The body is being returned to the Chiles - Cooper Funeral Home at Bloomfield.

Fire Damages Shed

A trash fire spread by high winds caught and damaged a storage shed in an alley behind Houchin's Do-Nut - Drive-In, 417 West Malone today.

Firemen were called at 11:12 a.m. and extinguished the blaze rapidly. No serious damage was caused.

Many Defeated Demos On Federal Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP) — A good many Democratic congressmen beaten in the Republican election sweep last November are back on the federal payroll.

Half have landed federal positions, are looking for them, or have been named to high positions in their states.

Former Rep. David S. King of Utah was appointed by President Johnson as U.S. ambassador to the Malagasy Republic off the southeast coast of Africa.

Half a dozen others have become high-level administrators in scattered federal agencies. More are consultants and lesser officials in a variety of federal programs.

Fifty-two Democratic congressmen were defeated in last year's primaries and general elections. So far 17 have federal appointments and jobs, at least 5 are looking and 4 are in line for positions in states and the Democratic party.

The other 26 defeated Democrats returned to law practices and other private positions back home, retired or are still in Washington but plan to return home soon.

Twenty-seven of the Democrats who rode into Congress on the Johnson tide in 1964 went right back out on the Republican resurgence last fall. But they generally have fared well.

Nine have federal jobs, four more are looking and three have state positions or are leading contenders for them.

Patronage? A Democratic congressional staff member says it's no such thing.

"We help them make contact when we can," he said, "but they have to rely on their own merit when they go down for the job.

"We're certainly not in a position to say 'yes,' 'no' or 'maybe' on whether they're hired."

But he added that congressional experience with federal programs often gives ex-officeholders an advantage over other applicants for the same jobs.

It would seem a congressman's voting record on proposals from a hiring agency also might help. But Democratic leaders concede no such influence.

There's little question the November defeats put some experienced men on the job market.

Former Rep. Clair Callan of Nebraska, a House Agriculture Committee member during his one term, has become deputy administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration.

President Johnson named Thomas G. McGrath Jr. of New Jersey as general counsel of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Kenneth W. Dyal, a former California postmaster, now is regional post office director in San Francisco.

Former Rep. Lindley Beckworth of Texas, a 24-year House veteran, was appointed by Johnson to a U.S. Customs Court judgeship in New York City.

Virginia Rep. W. Pat Jennings turned to old House colleagues for his job after November. They elected him House clerk.

Girls Intrigued by Valentine Custom

NEW YORK AP - Girls, what would you think of receiving a giant, hand-carved wooden spoon with engraved hearts and your initials for Valentine's Day today?

That's the way the Welshmen did it in the 18th and early 19th centuries. The spoon symbolized housekeeping. The idea was to express the boy's earnest desire to win the girl's intention to marry him. It's spooning, if you please.

"I think it's a very touching custom," said Ellen Schaut, a 19-year-old student at the Pittsburgh Art Institute. She commented in a sampling of opinion on the practice by The Associated Press.

Miss Schaut's roommate, Mickey Spillane - yes, she's a girl - also thinks it's a touching idea. Miss Spillane, 23, suggested however, that "if you don't like the guy, you can always hit him over the head with it."

"Too out of date for today's male," was the reaction of Cathie McSweeney, a 20-year-old junior at the University of California at Los Angeles.

"It's a symbol of household drudgery that should have been abolished years ago," remarked Corinne Guntzel, 24, a pert brunette PhD. candidate in economics at the Uni-

UFOs Discounted as Threat To Security

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) -- Reports of unidentified flying objects -- UFOs -- boomed last year, reports Maj. Hector Quintanilla, director of Project Blue Book at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

But whatever the sightings are, it's a safe bet they offer no threat to national security and don't come from outer space, the Air Force says.

A total of 1,060 sightings were submitted to the Air Force during 1966, second highest total since Blue Book began keeping tabs 20 years ago. The annual average is 555, the record 1,501 in 1952.

Of the 11,107 sightings since 1947, Quintanilla says, just 676 remain in the unidentified category. Only 30 of those checked out last year haven't been explained satisfactorily.

Another 242 sightings are listed as having insufficient data for identification.

The rest were identified as astronomical objects, aircraft, balloons, satellites and other natural or man-made items such as missiles, rockets, fireworks, clouds, birds, swamp gas, sparks, and a lighthouse.

To date, Project Blue Book — the Air Force's investigative authority on aerial phenomena — offers these "firm" conclusions:

1. No unidentified flying object reported, investigated and evaluated by the Air Force has ever given any indication of threat to U. S. security.

2. No evidence has been discovered to indicate that any sightings categorized as unidentified represent technological development or principles beyond the range of present-day scientific knowledge.

3. There has been no evidence that any unidentified sightings were outer space vehicles.

A sighting is considered unidentified, the major says, when a report apparently contains all pertinent data necessary to suggest a valid cause or explanation of the report, but the description of the object or its motion cannot be correlated with any known object or phenomenon.

Meanwhile, sightings continue. The Weather Bureau at Cincinnati was swamped with UFO calls Monday— all evidentaly connected with a weather balloon. Its instrument-packed gondola, believed launched at Palestine, Tex., fell to earth in a strip mine pit in southeastern Ohio.

THE DUNN HOTEL has changed ownership for the first time in 35 years. The owners, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dunn of Poplar Bluff, sold the structure to R. D. Clayton, who in turn sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Dearmont Oliver of East Prairie. The three-story building with 52 rooms will be remodeled.

Dexter Pool Grant

DEXTER - The city of Dexter was informed today that the interior department in Washington has awarded a $50,000 grant to the city for construction of a swimming pool and bathhouse.

Final approval of the grant enables the city to advertise for construction bids.

Gary Dowdy, chairman of the swimming pool committee for the Junior Chamber of Commerce, said today that the committee will meet Monday with the city council and engineers to make final plans so that bids can be advertised.

It is expected that bids will be advertised within two weeks.

The drive to provide a public swimming pool for Dexter has been a joint effort of the Jaycees and the park board.

The federal grant is for matching funds. Last Nov. 15 voters approved a $75,000 bond issue for the swimming pool and park improvements.

Cost of the pool and bathhouse is $100,000. The other $25,000 from the bond issue will be used for improvements to Airport park, where the pool will be located. The city's request for $25,000 in matching funds for these improvements was turned down by the federal government in October.

Plans call for an L-shaped pool, 42 by 165 feet, with a 40 by 40 foot diving well. A wading pool 40 feet in diameter will be provided for smaller children.

The pool will accomodate 624 persons, which is regulation capacity set by the state.

Completion of construction is expected in late summer, Dowdy said. The pool may be open briefly before the summer ends.

Assault Case Goes to Jury

An assault case tried in magistrate court this morning went to the jury before 1 p.m. today.

Martin Eugene Abbott was tried on a charge of assault against his wife.

Abbott and his wife Ruby Ann are still legally married. They were separated Dec. 26, 1966.

Prosecuting Attorney Fielding Potashnick asked for the maximum punishment of six months in jail and a $100 fine in his opening statement to the six-man jury. Magistrate John Sides presided.

Abbott was charged with assault on the night of Jan. 17. He was accused of dragging his wife from one automobile by the hair of the head, striking her and scratching her, and dragging her along side the car while holding one of her arms inside the moving car.

Mrs. Abbott testified that her husband came to the house at 419 Kendall where she was living with two other women, her sister Betty Mavis Riley and Sandy Evans.

She said she was asleep when her husband arrived and spoke to him through the door asking him to leave.

Her husband left in his car. Then, she said, she left in her sister's car to see if he went after their child who was being kept by her parents in Blodgett.

She returned to the house on Kendall in about 20 minutes and found Abbott sitting in his car in front of the house. She said he came over to the car she was sitting in, dragged her by the hair to his car, got in the car and held one of her arms inside the car and started driving, dragging her alone side. She said she managed to turn the steering wheel to make him stop the car, and then got away from him.

Miss Evans then went after a policeman, and Abbott was arrested later.

Bess Truman Marks 82nd Birthday

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. AP - Bess Truman has celebrated her 82nd birthday quietly at home in Independence, Mo.

As leary of personal publicity as when she was the nation's first lady, she declined Monday to have her picture taken.

"You know the answer to that one," she said when asked to pose for photographers.

Vigorous and alert, she continues her quiet social life and is usually the chauffeur when she and former President Harry S. Truman go out for brief afternoon drives.

The United States had an average of 50.5 persons per square mile of land at the end of the 1960 census.

Prospects For Peace Plunge

WASHINGTON AP - The North Vietnamese used 3,770 trucks and vessels to rush at least 25,000 tons of ammunition and equipment toward South Vietnam during the bombing pause, the Defense Department said today.

This was calculated to be enough to support a 10,000-man division in combat for 250 days, a spokesman said.

In the 96 hours of the Tet truce, the Communists were able to transport more war material southward than they had in any previous 30-day period, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, Vietnam peace prospects appeared at their lowest level in two months today as Monday's resumption of the U. S. air war against the speculation.

U. S. officials said peace efforts had receded to their pre-Christmas position.

President Johnson, in announcing the resumption of bombing late Monday, said he had hoped the cease-fire during the lunar new year "might lead to some abatement of hostilities and to moves toward peace."

But he said the North Vietnamese had used the pause "for major re-supply efforts of their troops in South Vietnam."

Johnson apparently referred to Sunday night's meeting in London between Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson when he said: "Despite our efforts and those of third parties, no other response has yet come from Hanoi."

Johnson earlier had indicated determination to resume the air war in the absence of any North Vietnamese easing of military activity.

But the North Vietnamese insisted on a halt in U.S. bombing and withdrawal of troops before peace talks could get started.

North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh made this clear in a reply to Pope Paul's appeal for an early settlement of the conflict.

Ho wrote, "The U.S. imperialists must put an end to their aggression in Vietnam, end unconditionally and definitely the bombing and all other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, withdraw from South Vietnam all American and satellite troops, recognize the South Vietnam National Front for Liberation (Viet Cong) and let the Vietnamese people settle themselves their own affairs."

That appeared a re-statement of conditions previously rejected by the United States.

Peace hopes began building up about two months ago when North Vietnamese officials dropped hints negotiations "could" start if the U. S. bombing was permanently halted.

There have been three truce intervals since December and diplomats had been particularly hopeful that the latest might bring a breakthrough in the quest for a peace formula.

In his White House statement, Johnson said, "The door to

Wilson Speaks Of Plan for Bringing Peace

LONDON (AP) - Prime Minister Harold Wilson reported today the existence of an initiative - a plan - which he said "could bring peace tomorrow" to Vietnam.

He told the House of Commons only a very small move was needed to set into motion "all the very complicated machinery that could bring us to peace."

The prime minister, answering questions in the House of Commons on his talks with Soviest Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, gave no details of this initiative or plan.

Wilson said there were moments during his talks with Kosygin last week when peace negotiations "could have been very near." But he said these two elements were lacking:

"A general realization that sooner or later there must be a political settlement, and secondly, the necessary degree of trust and confidence on the part of each of the nations fighting in this war about the sincerity of the desire of the other to work for a negotiated political settlement."

Wilson said the massive movement of men and material from North Vietnam to the south had been greater than in any previous trace period. This, he said, "made it harder for the North Vietnamese leaders wished to use the truce for an effort toward peace, rather than for a further effort in war."

Library Bill Opposed by City Board

The public library board decided yesterday afternoon to oppose a bill introduced in the Missouri House to rewrite the state's law governing public libraries.

Members said they opposed the bill because it increased the power of the Missouri library commission, offered the prospect of high taxation and would not benefit the Sikeston public library.

Under the bill the library commission would certify newly appointed librarians, who must be permanently employed, hold a college degree in library science.

The regulation would not apply to existing librarians but it was attacked as unreasonably restrictive and unfair.

Chairman Norval Cannon instructed the Librarian Lenora Norman to inform State Reps. Tony Heckemeyer and David Rolwing, Charleston, and State Sen. A. M. Spradling Jr., Cape Girardeau, of the board's opposition.

The legislative proposal, house bill 223, was introduced by Rep. Harold Dickson, California, Mo., Republican, with the endorsement of the Missouri Library association.

Court Sets Hearing for Next Week

A preliminary hearing for Robert Farris, Sikeston, charged with assault today was set for next Tuesday in magistrate court. Bond was set at $1,000.

Magistrate John Sides presided. Assistant prosecuting attorney Tom Gilmore represented the state. Those accused, the charge and disposition of the cases:

Alouise C. Fenton, Charleston, speeding, fined $27.50 and costs.

Ronnie Worth, Sikeston, assault, dismissed on payment of costs.

Charles D. Glenn, New Madrid, driving an unregistered vehicle, fined $5 and costs.

Bobby R. Barrick, route four, Sikeston, illegal possession of intoxicants, fined $50 and costs.

Zural Satterfield, Dexter, driving an overweight truck, fined $10 and costs.

Leonard Jackson, 306 Sunset, speeding, fined $27.50 and costs.

James Mollinauex, Johnson Acres, careless and imprudent driving, fined $10 and costs.

William E. Lingle, 314 West Murray Lane, careless and imprudent driving, fined $10 and costs.

Burning Trash Ignites Grass

A grass fire at 450 Smith St. Monday afternoon threatened to damage a nearby house before firemen extinguished the blaze. No damage was caused. The fire was started from burning trash.

Air War Back at Full Tilt

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) - The air war returned to full swing today on both sides of the border. U.S. fighter-bombers pounded railways and other supply routes in North Vietnam. Radio Hanoi declared two planes were shot down. U.S. Navy vessels attacked North Vietnamese shipping.

Peking and Pyongyang broadcast pledges of continued support for the Viet Cong from Red China and North Korea. The messages to the guerrillas were signed by Defense Ministers Lin Piao of China and Kim Chang Bong of North Korea.

There was no immediate comment here on Hanoi's story of the downing of two planes. If confirmed, the official list of American losses north of the border would rise to 475.

In South Vietnam allied forces reported only light contact with the enemy, but U.S. Air Force and Marine pilots flew a near record 535 sorties in support of sweeping infantrymen Monday. The American record for one day of such single combat flights in South Vietnam is 549, set last Jan. 13.

U.S. spokesmen also announced that seven men of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Airmobile, Division were killed and four were wounded Monday night when five rounds of their own artillery landed among them.

The spokesmen also announced that one man of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division was killed Sunday and 14 were wounded when a U.S. plane's bomb went astray during an operation. However, a claymore mine went off in the same area just before the bomb explosion, and the spokesmen said it might have caused some of the casualties.

The first American air strike against the Communist north since the lunar new year truce began last Wednesday morning was made at 1:07 a.m. by two Air Force F4C Phantoms. They attacked the Vinh Tuy highway bridge seven miles south of Dong Hoi, the U.S. Command said.

Navy A6 Intruders pounded rail facilities in half a dozen areas in the North Vietnamese panhandle.

Poor weather conditions limited the air raids to the panhandle area and hampered damage assessment estimates. The Air Force announced its pilots flew 12 missions - about 36 planes - in the first five hours after the bombing pause ended.

A U.S. spokesman said there "definitely were further" strikes throughout the day.

U.S. military authorities announced today that before the bombing pause ended, a Navy RA5C Vigilante reconnaissance plane was shot down south of Haiphong Sunday. They said the two pilots managed to get the plane over the Gulf of Tonkin and bailed out, and an Air Force amphibian and a Navy helicopter flew through small-arms fire from nearby junks to rescue the men a half mile off shore.

It was the second reconnaissance plane downed in the north during the bombing pause and the 473rd American plane reported lost in North Vietnam.

North Vietnam's Vietnam News Agency, announcing the resumption of U.S. air strikes, claimed that the Americans bombed and strafed "many populated areas and economic establishments" in the provinces of Thanh Hoa, Ninh Binh and Nam Ha. It said the town of Phu Ly, in Nam Ha Province, was

80 Per Cent of Adult Trainees Employed

One hundred and ninety two adults who have been trained in the multi - occupation program now are employed, William F. Sikes, director of the manpower development and training program, said last night.

He reported that the figure, representing 80 per cent of the 235 trained at the facility, was better than his expectations when the federal program began in July of 1965. The program is sponsored by the departments of labor and education.

There are now 162 trainees studying 10 occupations.

Sixteen per cent have dropped out of the program for various reasons but Sikes reported few trainees encountered trouble "with the law" in a speech to the Rotary club at the Rustic Rock Inn.

"Community cooperation has been good," he said.

An average of about 200 trainees receiving $55 a week releases approximately $11,000 a week and more than a half million dollars a year into Sikeston business channels, he said.

Sikes said that the program aided industry by providing basic training for employes.

Two of the limitations experienced in the program have been trying to teach people to learn how to read in 12 weeks and in attempting to assist the mentally retarded, "who need more help than we can give."

Referrals are made by the employment security commission, which also places the graduates of the program in jobs. Most of the students have been on some form of public assistance program.

"A majority of them want to work," Sikes said.

Sikes was introduced by Lennie Whitworth.

Charles Green led the singing accompanied by Mary Ann Bruce at the piano.

Dr. Ralph Wiggins was a guest of Dr. Frank Sisson.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

The widespread availability of electronic bugging devices, which do not require any wire tapping, suggest that the only sound course for the United States government to follow is to accept the idea that the privacy of citizens isn't what it once was.

This observation is made reluctantly but it is foolhardy to advocate prohibition of the use of these devices to protect the national security and fight organized crime when they can easily be used against the government by enemies of this country and by foes of society.

The right to determine when they are used should be given to the courts on a prior basis, similar to the granting of a warrant for search and seizure. It should not be left to the attorney general or other federal official. There is too much danger of political manipulation in giving the privilege to any individual.

U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long has performed a public service in bringing to the attention of the country the snooping activities of federal agents and others.

The recent admissions of electronic eavesdropping related to the period before July 1, 1965.

The justice department says that since that date no bugging or wiretapping has been permitted by federal agencies except upon authorization of the attorney general and then only in the interests of national security.

When President Lyndon B. Johnson urged the outlawing of snooping in his state of the union address, the applause greeting it in Congress was deceptive.

Many congressmen believe that there should be no complete prohibition of either bugging or wiretapping and that exceptions should be made either in the interests of the national security or in fighting organized crime or for both.

The recent public airing of a difference of opinion about whether the FBI had conducted wiretapping or bugging at the request of the attorney general shows the need to avoid arguments and establish clear responsibility.

The argument was between J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, and former Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, now a senator and presidential aspirant.

Hoover seemed to win the argument.

Senator Long is correct when he expresses reservations about eavesdropping even in national security cases with prior court approval.

"How do you define the national security?" he asks. "Whenever you open the door to any eavesdropping, there is no stopping. It is like putting the fox in the hen house."

True enough but because of scientific progress Americans are going to have to learn how to live with the fox.

It is too dangerous for them to attempt to live without it by tying the government's hands.

Long agrees that if there are exceptions they should be handled on the basis of a prior court order.

That is the only sensible course to take.

FEBRUARY - AMERICAN HISTORY MONTH

February 1967 marks a milestone for the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the patriotic organizations affiliated with its members in a long and arduously fought attempt to have the month of February designated as American History Month. During the closing sessions of Congress a group of Congressmen, concerned with the importance of preserving a fundamental knowledge of the principles on which our country was established and of the people who sacrificed and dared so much to bring it about, sponsored the passage of a bill making February 1967 officially American History Month in all the fifty states. For a number of years Governors of the various states from Alaska to Florida, and including ex-Governor Dalton and Governor Warren Hearnes of Missouri have issued proclamations making these days a tribute to the myriad patriots and heroes who have lived, died, and given their lives and their fortunes for the freedoms which we today must not risk losing. The mayors of over a thousand cities in all parts of the Republic have joined in the chorus, and it has been so in Sikeston.

February was chosen as American History Month largely because it contains the birthdays of three of our presidents - two of the greatest. George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, tower over their counterparts in any history, but it was the devotion of the men from the farms and the shops, from the banks and the mills who rallied to the banner under the leadership of Washington to claim their independence of domination by a foreign power who must also be commemorated during the month.

One of the signers of the Declaration of Independence was a wealthy Virginian named Thomas Nelson, Jr. He joined the fighting forces of the American Revolution and became a Brigadier General. Toward the end of the Revolution, as the battle of Yorktown approached, the British General Cornwallis made his headquarters in the beautiful Nelson home. The seige of Yorktown lasted three weeks. Nelson personally directed the fire on his own stately dwelling. Soon after, Cornwallis surrendered; but the costs of war were not over. Nelson had raised a necessary $2,000,000 almost overnight by putting up his own properties as collateral. They were forfeited when the loans came due, and the government never reimbursed him. With his health and fortune ruined, Thomas Nelson Jr., died a few years later, still dedicated to the cause to which he had given everything, knowing that his sacrifice was helping to build a strong nation. This is the kind of personal sacrifice that those who know what tyranny means were willing to make that we might enjoy the freedom and independence we know today.

One more our columnist Victor Riesel has been weeks ahead on a national, headline-making, front page story now exciting millions of readers.

Red-haired Walter Reuther is on the warpath - exactly as Riesel predicted.

Word for word, that is.

On January 11, Riesel reported in his column that:

"Brother Reuther does not plan to attend (the midwinter Florida session of labor's high command). He will continue to boycott and escalate his war against the older mainliners."

Riesel predicted flatly there would be no confrontation in Bal Harbour between George Meany and Reuther because the auto union chief would do exactly what he has done.

During the evening of February 3, almost four weeks after Riesel's column, the story hit the wires and made front pages all across the land on Feb. 4.

When Riesel is not right atop the new's, he's well ahead of it month after month.

DESPAIR DOESN'T RELIEVE OF DUTY

A mood of drift and despair is at large in the land. Many of the victims of its gloomy infection were once-proud American patriots.

They have contended long and hard for what they are convinced is right principle. They believe in personal Freedom and national independence as the twin cornerstones of the American heritage. Now they are discouraged because their words of wisdom and warning so often go unheeded. Some are silent because they have concluded that all is lost.

Had our first patriots followed this unhappy example, we would have no country to love, no heritage to honor and no history of which to be proud.

Even if the worse were true, even if there were no hope for Freedom's survival, this would not relieve men who know the truth and right from their duty to speak out. In fact, so long as free speech is still permitted, hope remains in spite of all doomcriers.

Any trend of history can be reversed if enough men will it. Any man's words may become the spark lighting the fire of determination to save Freedom in the souls of others. In the darkest hour, each man needs his brightest torch. It is too late not to try.

Let us hear again from the newly silent Americans. Let them not measure their mark on history by size of audiences and numbers of votes. Truth is more powerful than an army with banners. The silence of men who know truth and right is an invitation to their destroyers to proceed.

NEW YORK (AP) - Jumping to conclusions—and how many do you agree with?

The only way to please anyone over 40 more than by sending him a signed valentine is to send him an unsigned one. He'll feel flattered the rest of the year at the idea someone has a secret crush on him.

The most determined philanthropists in a big city are the drably dressed old ladies who regularly feed pigeons seed or bread crumbs. They'll dare a blizzard to perform this loving chore.

You always feel cheated if you pay $15 or $20 for a hotel room, and then find the mangement hasn't got around to putting a Gideon Bible in the dresser drawer.

Never lend money to a guy who, when he visits the zoo, spends most of his time staring at the creatures slithering around the reptile pit.

Nine out of 10 Americans don't know how to eat a pomegranate.

Whoever invented the miniskirt played the worst joke of the century on women—but the ladies haven't gotten around to realizing it.

You're in a rut if it ruins your day to come to work in the morning and discover someone else has beaten you to your favorite coat hanger.

Most professional midgets are baseball fans, but few take any interest at all in basketball.

You always know you're in an intellectual home if they serve you a cheese fondue for dinner. Only an intellectual could eat that dish and convince himself he'd had a meal.

Whenever anyone gives me for Christmas a pen that can write in three colors, I take it as a personal challenge to see if during the succeeding 12 months I can find a gift equally useless to surprise him with the next Christmas.

People who wear trifocal glasses generally feel mentally superior to people who only wear bifocals.

It worries a mother if her baby boy has big ears, but a father takes it as a good omen if the lad has big feet.

The brief case is no longer the status symbol it used to be. When you see a guy carrying one now, it just makes you wonder whether he really is an executive or just a fellow carrying his lunch.

Inflation will reach a critical point in America the day hatcheck girls start expecting four bits instead of a quarter.

The Missouri Highway Patrol gave 410,340 drivers' license examinations in 1966.

In its summary of drivers' license examinations for last year, the Highway Patrol reported that 67 per cent of the examinations were passed and 31 per cent were failed. Two per cent of the tests given by the Patrol were not completed.

The written part of the drivers' license examination was the reason for the most failed tests, 81,934. The road test accounted for 44,954 failed examinations. The remaining 1,807 failures were due to the eye and road sign examinations.

New drivers, those who had never been licensed before, took 310,237 examinations for a Missouri drivers' license in 1966. Out-of-state drivers moving into Missouri accounted for 72, 051 tests, and 26,160 examinations were given to those drivers whose license had expired. The Highway Patrol gave 866 examinations to drivers who were cited by the Director of Revenue to determine their qualifications or competency to safely operate a motor vehicle.

The annual summary also showed that examiners found 45,495 defective vehicles prior to starting the road test.

The Patrol gave 659 special drivers' examinations to school bus drivers last year, and 266 special tests were given to postal employees.

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Patrol Superintendent, stated that most of the drivers who took these examinations spent a good deal of brushing up on their driving skills and knowledge of motor vehicle law. He suggested that all drivers, regardless of their experience or driving record, make a periodic self-examination of their driving proficiency and familiarity with the traffic laws.

WHILE I am in the mood, I should like to confess that I feel sorry for the one parakeet and the four goldfish that are prisoners in my apartment. The lone bird is in a cage and the fish are in a small Woolworth aquarium. In some respects, all are beautiful sights to see.

But --

What is the bird's reaction to captivity? And what do the fish think? Do any of them know what they are missing? Do they consider themselves lucky? Do they appreciate the good home I supply? Or do they hate me?

HOW was I persuaded to switch from aspirin to Anacin? I don't know for sure, but the fact is that for a couple of years I have been reaching for an Anacin when I am wakeful or feeling mean.

Then I read what follows in Changing Times, the Kiplinger magazine:

"$86,400,000 for a headache cure. The sum was spent over a period of eight years, beginning in 1956. It went for presentations of a single ad, a 59-second TV commercial for Anacin. The ad promised fast relief from headache pain and was astoundingly successful. Quoted in Madison Avenue, Rosser Reeves, the ad industry's prime maverick and chairman of its fifth biggest ad agency (Ted Bates & Co.), said the commercial cost $9,400 to produce and "made more money for the client than Gone With the Wind." Reeves thinks it's the largest amount of cash ever spent on a single ad, and thus far no one has risen to challenge him.'

The millions of dollars so startled me when I read them that I had to ask Reeves for confirmation before I dared print $86,400,000. Anacin is a product of a subsidiary of American Home Products.

On the label of the Anacin bottle, this information is printed: 'Active ingredients; aspirin, cafeine.'

CREATING POVERTY

A leaflet published by a union states: "This session of Congress must also increase the amount and broaden the coverage of the FEDERAL MINIMUM WAGE -- the most effective means of combating poverty."

This union is entitled to its views and to press for legislation which it wants. But a great many people who have studied the matter hold grave doubts that increase after increase in the minimum wage, coupled with broadened coverage, is the way to help the poor. In fact, they think it is more likely to have the opposite result.

To begin with, arbitrarily increased wage rates, which are not geared in any way to a worker's value and productivity, cannot help but force commodity prices up and give another boost to inflation. The burden of that must fall on those least able to bear the added burden -- pensioners, recipients of welfare, and the great numbers of people who live on modest fixed incomes from one source or another. It is certainly evident that every time prices rise more poverty is automatically created.

Secondly, these arbitrary wage rates which are not reflected in productivity can severely limit opportunity for employment. The employer is forced to cut marginal employment to the greatest extent he can. This is especially apparent in such service businesses as retailing. And thus the unskilled have less chance to get jobs and gain the experience that will qualify them for higher pay.

Many a plan, well intended for improving the lot of lower-income groups, has boomeranged. That is inevitable when wage rates are pegged by fiat at unreasonable levels.

H.L. Hunt Says

PROPOSED "DEPARTMENT" OF CONSUMERS"

The report of the Consumer Advisory Council to the President, made public at the end of last year, recommends the creation of yet another new cabinet level federal department. This one would be called the Department of Consumers. Its purpose would be to add new paper mountains to the towering range already thrown up by past laws, aimed at regulating producers for the alleged benefit of consumers.

Because of the simple fact that there cannot be a sale without a buyer and a seller, there cannot be consumers without producers. This elementary fact escapes those who see bureaucratic regulation and new red tape jungles as the answer to every problem. Consumers are not a special "interest group" to be treated in isolation. We are all consumers; but everything we consume must first be produced.

If consumers are satisfied with what they are getting, no one else has cause for complaint. If they want more and are not willing to pay more, producers will eventually be found to give better quality at the same prices and thus increase their sales. No Department of Consumers can do anything significant to assist these basic functions of the free market. But such a department would do much to hinder them by placing artificial barriers between producer and consumer.

The real effect of regulation allegedly in the interest of consumers is to tell them what they can and cannot consume, as well as making it more difficult to produce what they want. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

J. EDGAR HOOVER GETS HIS MAN

On February 1, 1967, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that President Johnson had approached former Gov. Grant Sawyer of Nevada who had been defeated after he tangled with J. Edgar Hoover, to become Governor of the Panama Canal zone and that he had accepted. However, there had been a leak through the FBI in Nevada and it was predicted that Sawyer would now probably not get the job after all.

On Feb. 6 the White House announced the appointment of Brig. Gen. Walter P. Leber as Governor of the Canal zone.

WASHINGTON -- Having written a great deal that was critical about the extracurricular activities of Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Globe - Trotter, it's only fair to balance the record.

It seems to us that Rep. Powell was done an injustice in the libel suit brought by Mrs. Esther James of Harlem, in which she got a total judgment, with penalties, of $166,000. Of course some of this was Adam's fault, in that he was cavalier with the courts and refused to appear in reply to court summonses. But on the other hand, when you look at the background of Mrs. James, you can understand why he felt he had suffered a miscarriage of justice.

Mrs. James is now living in Montego Bay, Jamaica, and was not available to us for comment. When Walter Cronkite of CBS tried to interview her, his producer was informed by her attorney that it would cost $2,500 if the interview was given when he was going to Montego Bay, and $5,000 if given at an earlier date. CBS passed up this expensive opportunity. NBC did interview Mrs. James.

MRS. JAMES BACKGROUND

Mrs. James is a West Indian Negro who came to the United States during the depression and gave four different birth dates to the Buffalo police -- Dec. 25, 1903; Dec. 25, 1904; Dec. 25, 1905; and Jan. 4, 1896.

The dates were given during six brushes with the law which Mrs. James experienced while living in Buffalo. These arrests, which resulted in one fine and two suspended sentences, were not permitted by the judge to be introduced as evidence in the libel suit which Adam lost.

Most courts permit all evidence regarding a plaintiff's career be placed before the jury. This is because when a plaintiff sues for libel it's important to see whether he or she has a good reputation and whether it has been really damaged.

However, Mrs. James's police record was ruled out. We have confirmed the record from the Buffalo police.

It shows that Mrs. James was first arrested Aug. 4, 1933, charged with second decree assault, which in New York is a felony. The incident took place in the yard of 188 Walnut street where Mrs. James was engaged in a fight with Cleo Peterson. Harris Baker of 140 Walnut street, a neighbor, tried to stop the fight. Whereupon Mrs. James picked up a hammer and struck Baker on the head. A grand jury failed to indict.

On Sept. 1, 1933, Mrs. James was again charged with disorderly conduct. The police record shows no disposition of the case.

In 1937, on July 29, Mrs. James was charged with assault in the third degree and was given a suspended sentence. Earlier that month, July 21, she was arrested as a material witness but released.

On Sept. 13, 1937, she was again charged with assault in the third degree and again given a suspended sentence.

On Aug. 2, 1938, she was arrested for disorderly conduct and fined $10.

WHO SCALPED ESTHER?

The police record of the bureau of identification of the Buffalo police gives Mrs. James's photograph and fingerprints. Her name is listed as Estella James, with the following aliases: "Esta James, Esther James, Esthre James."

She also uses the name "Estella Rose Collemore," according to the New York City police department.

The Buffalo police record states under "scars and marks": "Bald spot top head caused by hair pulled out."

This does not appear to be a lady whose reputation is worth -- with penalties -- a total of $166,000.

Charles T. McKinney, who defended the case for Rep. Powell, was handicapped by the fact that his client, was as usual busy in Washington and elsewhere. He did not appear in his own defense. Juries are usually charged by the judge that the absence of the defendant cannot be held against him. Attorneys handling the Powell case could not remember whether Judge Thomas Aurielo so charged the jury.

Mr. McKinney at one point moved for a mistrial because a New York newspaper had published the fact that one juror had heard on television that Congressman Powell was going to attend the trial and the juror had announced this to the other jurors. When Powell did not appear, according to the newspaper account, the jurors showed visible signs of disappointment. Judge Aurielo overruled the motion for a mistrial.

Mr. McKinney states that he was rushed into trial by the trial judge without sufficient preparation, and that Judge Aurielo refused a postponement on the grounds that the trial judge had already set the case.

All of the above are matters which the congressional committee investigating Powell should check into. It has the power to subpoena records and require Mrs. James to return to the USA from Montego Bay.

Note -- Any persons having further information regarding Mrs. James's activities will perform a public service by communicating with us in Washington or with Rep. Emanuel Celler, chairman of the Powell investigating committee.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Special Labor Team Set to Swing 50 Million Workers Behind LBJ in 1968.

Washington, D. C. -- In the White House, shortly after lunchtime on Jan. 25, the man - eating labor leader, George Meany, who chews up newsmen like hors do'oeuvres, cheerfully walked out of Lyndon Johnson's inner office and told some friends that Mr. Johnson was the best President labor ever had.

For Mr. Meany, rarely a laughing boy, this was unprecedented gushing enthusiasm.

It was also a public pledge of support for the 1968 Johnson - Humphrey ticket which will receive warm support from labor's high command when it meets officially in Bal Harbour, Fla., later this month.

Like Meany, virtually all labor leaders are cheerful these days, despite the polls which show their candidates slipping. Why?

Because the union chiefs, the toughest realists since the Romans, have been doing some political arithmetic now ignored by the public and the pollsters.

These union leaders reckon that exactly a year from today -- just six months before the national nominating convention -- some 50 million workers and retirees will be shouting and swinging for "Lyndon."

These are the men and women who will be earning from $10 to $14 more a week -- automatic 'v -- as a result of new legislation blandly overlooked by a public hypnotized by the Vietnamese controversy.

And to these 40 million people this is big money, for they are the lowest income workers in the land.

And most of the action comes between this past Feb. 1 and Feb. 1, 1968.

First off, some 32.3 million people now covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act will get all sorts of new benefits as a result of the new minimum wage law, for which such labor leaders as the garment workers' Dave Dubinsky have been fighting alongside Lyndon Johnson since 1937. The full money impact of the law on these tens of millions will be felt by Feb. 1 -- 1968.

But this is merely the beginning. The law sweeps another eight million people into the act's coverage -- by Feb. 1-- 1968.

At least five million low income workers got what for them is a big raise from their employers on Feb. 1, 1967, because of the increase in the national minimum wage.

Some actually got $10 a week more. This will go up next Feb. 1 -- '68.

Millions more got $6 a week more and will get an additional $8 increase on Feb. 1 -- '68.

Others will gain from new regulations providing mandatory time and a half for overtime.

By next Feb. 1 -- 1968 -- the whole 40.3 million will have gained heavy increases without having to fight or strike or bargain. The money will just fall into their pay envelopes.

Amongst these folks -- now in the lowest income bracket -- are some 400,000 farm workers and employees of hospitals, nursing homes, tough labor projects, school maintenance, hotels and motels.

Naturally, in this vast stratum of humanity are the minorities -- Negroes, Puerto Ricans, Mexican - Americans, even Eskimos now being unionized by the Seafarers fishermen's unit.

This story will be told in thousands of labor papers going to the multi - million memberships week after week right through 1968.

But there is more. It's all in a speech delivered by Vice President Hubert Humphrey last week to the West Virginia state labor federation. The total poverty budget now is $25 billion.

Atop this will come higher social security payments for perhaps 10 million retirees. They are a powerful, well-organized voting force. To them, too, the labor people will bring "the message."

It's just a matter of working out the communications techniques. This problem now is in the hands of five of Meany's most trusted, most skilful organizers: the seafarers' Paul Hall, the clerks' Jim Suffridge, the electrical workers' Joe Keenan, the communications workers' Joe Beirne and the steelworkers' upsurging I. W. "Abe" Abel They will begin planning for 1968 during the Florida high command session.

They are not idolators. They are innovators. Their assignments is to begin swinging and to return to the White House the man labor says is the best friend it ever had within the gates.

Wanda Clippard Is Bride Of Larry Frank Busby

OAK RIDGE--Miss Wanda Mae Clippard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Clippard, Oak Ridge route one became the bride of Larry Frank Busby in a ceremony the evening of Jan. 28. Busby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn D. Busby, Advance, route two.

Caney Fork Baptist church at Millersville was the scene for the event at which the Rev. Harley Statler officiated. Baskets of yellow rosebuds and green carnations enhanced the setting lighted by tapers in twin candelabra. Mrs. Peggy Moore of Millersville accompanied the vocalist, Earl Oldham of Jackson.

Clippard gave his daughter in marriage. Her bridal gown of brocaded peau de soie followed empire lines and featured long sleeves outlined at the wrist with seed pearls which also trimmed the neckline. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to rose leaves outlined with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with two yellow-throated white orchids.

Miss Donna Kester, Cape Girardeau, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Stearns, Oak Ridge, sister of the bride, and Mrs. John Clippard, Jackson. Their empire gowns of peau de soie were yellow for the maid of honor and green for the bridesmaids. Matching bows held their nosetip veils and they carried bouquets of yellow rosebuds and green carnations.

Cindy Langston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Langston of Jackson, was flower girl. She wore a gown that matched that of the maid of honor and carried a basket of yellow rosebuds and green carnations. Larry Brack Morton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Morton of Cape Girardeau was ringbearer.

Attending the bridegroom were his brother, Linny Clark Busby of Jackson, who was best man, Richard Stearns of Oak Ridge and John Clippard of Jackson, brother of the bride, groomsmen. Ushers were Albert Baker, Cape Girardeau and Lynn Clippard, Oak Ridge.

Serving at the reception at the church were Miss Linda Conley, Jackson, Miss Peggy Lee, Cape Girardeau, and Mrs. Linny C. Busby, Jackson. Miss Phyllis Ann Busby of Advance was at the guest book.

The bride attended Oak Ridge high school and was employed at St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau prior to her marriage. Busby was graduated from Advance high school and is employed by the Chrysler Corp. in St. Louis. The couple will live in Fenton.

Miss Frances Phillips Weds Charles G. White

AQUILLA -- Miss Frances Kay Phillips and Charles Glen White were married Jan. 21, at 8 p.m. at the General Baptist church.

The Rev. Don Stafford performed the double ring ceremony.

Miss Phillips is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Phillips of Aquilla. White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Montie White of Bloomfield.

The bride was escorted down the aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of peau de soie. The bodice was designed with a scooped neckline and long tapered sleeves were accented with tiny pearl buttons and points over the hands. A detachable train fell from the empire waistline. Her silk illusion veil was caught with a pearl tiara and she carried a corsage of white carnations banked with pink carnations.

The maid of honor was Louana Sutton of Canalou, a classmate of the bride at Southeast Missouri State College. She wore a floor length gown, of red brocade with a close fitting bodice and scooped neckline and long controlled skirt. She carried a fur muff centered with an American beauty rose.

Kenneth White, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. White is from Overland.

Ushers were: Bruce Phillips, brother of the bride and Kenneth Kingree, cousin of the bride.

Miss Kathy Fraley of Matthews, a classmate of Miss Phillips, was pianist. She provided pre-nuptial music, favorite selections of the bride and groom. She also sang, "More," by Norman Newells accompanied by Miss Sharon White of Aquilla.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at White's Cafe in Bloomfield. The bride's table was overlaid with a red satin cloth centered with a white netted heart shape centerpiece of hanging rose buds.

The tiered wedding cake was trimmed with American beauty roses and white lily of the valley, topped with traditional miniature bride and groom standing under a netted arch.

Wedding bells hung throughout the dining room.

The couple left for Jonesboro, Ark., where White is a senior at Arkansas State University.

Loveland Postmark,

Verse for Valentines

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) - Loveland post office employes annually stamp the envelopes of 90,000 to 100,000 valentines with the Loveland postmark and a rhyme and send them along to sweethearts in all 50 states plus a number of foreign countries.

The verse is changed each year. This year's version is:

"A note of true affection
Is signed and sealed within,
And sent from mile-high Loveland
Where romantic trails begin."

As class S and M high school basketball squads make their home stretch turn tonight, looking for that added lift and drive before the regional tournaments start next week. A bevy of games are on tab as a few teams end their conference schedules as well as their regular season.

Some 38 squads will hit the hardwood tonight in hopes of adding to their record and one will hit the floor tonight hoping for their season's first.

As our little Devil prepares for his predictions. . . .We thought you might like to know that he has hit on 347 of 420 for a .824 mark. That's pretty good considering the person doing the guessing.... Well. . . .everyone can't be good. . . .

We see time is short. . . .so here are tonight's predictions:

Dexter at Bell City --- We sure can't figure out those Cubs. . . .Falling to Scott Central so bad and then turning around and beating Delta the way the Braves did them . . . .We think the Cubs are capable of beating the Bearcats. . . .But. . . .you never can tell about the Cubs. We'll go along with the visitors. Dexter 68, Bell City 64.

Richland at Kelly --- The Rebels are preparing for the Bloomfield regional and will use the Hawks tonight. . . . only as a practice team. Richland 84, Kelly 63.

Campbell at Parma --- The Pirates were behind at Risco last week. . . .and will find themselves behind during the entire game tonight. . . .That's if James Gibson is still out of uniform. . . .If he's in. . . . The Parma quintet will lead . . . .maybe at the end of the first quarter. . . .either way you go they will surely lose. Campbell 61, Parma 53.

Puxico at Malden --- Coach Garner will have a few surprises for the teams in the Bloomfield regional and will show the Indians one tonight. Malden 59, Puxico 53.

Holcomb at Risco --- The Hornets are no match for the Tigers. . . .Risco will go another night without a win.... Maybe they will take Friday night's game. . . .we sure hope so. Holcomb 96, Risco 57.

Lilbourn at Bloomfield --- Both squads play that slow approach to the goal game. ... The Wildcats have speeded it up a little lately and have looked good doing it. . . .We think they are going to be hard to beat in the next three weeks. Bloomfield 58, Lilbourn 52.

Bernie at Broseley --- With Page back in the lineup for the Tigers and Bernie's Craft and Botsch out . . . .that spells only one thing. . . .A Broseley win. Broseley 79, Bernie 75.

Delta at Scott Central --- If the Bobcats play as they did against Bell City last week. ... All they can hope for is a snow storm to cancel out the game as the Braves are down right tough on their home court. Maybe if they hold the ball they can win. . . .Scott Central 92, Delta 71.

Hayti North at Gideon --- Those Bulldogs might pull the upset. . . .If the Indians are not prepared. . . .Coach Shock's squad will win. . . .What it looks like from here though is. . . . Hayti 81, Giden 64.

Charleston at Illmo - Scott City --- No. 13 for the Blue Jays. . . .Maybe they ought to lose this game and then not take an unlucky number with them to Cape Girardeau Friday night. . . .Briggs and Co. are loaded for bear and will blow the Rams plum off the floor.... Charleston 73, Illmo-Scott City 54.

Portageville at Senath-H'ville --- This should prove to be a real good game. . . . Both teams have had their troubles this season. . . .We see a win for the home town crowd though. . . .Sorry about that Coach Kinnamen. . . . . Spears is on your side. . . . Senath-H'ville 66, Portageville 57.

Doniphan at Poplar Bluff --- The Mules defeated the Dons early in the season. . . .Can they do it again?. . . .Yes. . . . Poplar Bluff 78, Doniphan 71.

Oran at Woodland -- The Eagles will return to the win column tonight. . . .Johnson and Johnson will provide the Oran quintet with the victory. Oran 93, Woodland 78.

Chaffee at Matthews --- Would you believe an upset???? How about a little close game?? Well. . . .Then how about. . .. Matthews 101, Chaffee 69.

South Pemiscot at Clarkton --- This should be a real. . . ."Head Knocker". . . . We think the visitors will take this game. . . .South Pemiscot 61, Clarkton 55.

What we're waiting for. . .. is that perfect night for our little friend. . . .Maybe tonight will be his. . .We hope. . .

Matthews Takes Grip On No. 1 Spot In Standard Poll

Matthews' Pirates took a firm grip on the No. 1 position in this week's Southeast Missouri high school basketball poll as Notre Dame began a late season climb toward the top.

Notre Dame (20-2), in third place last week, moved to second, but the gap between the two teams remained as it was last week as the Pirates polled all 14-first place votes.

Bloomfield (20-6) replaced Howardville (18-6) in fourth place after Oran (23-4) fell from second to third. Howardville dropped to sixth place.

Charleston (17-5), which won one game last week, jumped three notches to fifth. The BlueJays edged Oran, second last week, 59-57 on the Eagles home court.

Poplar Bluff (18-4) of the SEMO conference was seventh after being in the number six position a week ago.

Hayti North, seventh last week, fell to eighth, Kennett failed to make the poll last week in an oversight of tabulation of votes, but climbed to ninth, moving Dexter to tenth.

With the big mixup in the top ten, the individual class ratings also took a tumble.

Poplar Bluff, after leading the class L quintets all season, fell to second and made room for the surging Charleston Blue Jays. Kennett remained third, Sikeston fell to fifth as Cape Girardeau Central surged to fourth after not being mentioned last week. Jackson failed to appear.

In the class M ratings, the top five teams had Oran and Notre Dame exchanging places. Hayti North clung to fifth.

The only change in the class S ratings was in the fourth and fifth positions as Advance, fifth last week, made its way to fourth and moved Leopold from fourth to fifth.

The shuffle in this week's ranking was brought about by Charleston's 59-57 win over Oran, Bloomfield's 54-44 win over Houston, Poplar Bluff's 64-57 loss to Advance and Notre Dame's rousing victory over St. Pius of Festus.

This week's big game will pit second ranked Notre Dame against Charleston, which is in fifth place in the poll. The game will be played at Cape Girardeau Friday night.

The final Daily Standard basketball poll will run two weeks from today. All of the area coaches will be voting on the final poll.

Swing Along With Ted by Ted Williams

CASSIUS OR MUHAMMAD, HE'S THE CHAMP

NEW YORK -- Some people hate him, others love him. He gets into lots of trouble when he speaks and yet there are many people who find him quite charming when he's in a relaxed mood. But for all his talk, which gets him both in and out of trouble, he's the heavyweight champion of the world and deserves it. And now he's the undisputed champ after his lopsided victory over Ernie Terrell.

For all anyone knows, Clay's greatest talent may be that he is a master showman underneath everything. His peoms and the sense of humor he has displayed on television shows us a man very different from Clay the boxer preparing for a fight. You can't criticize him for not fighting enough contenders, and saying that all of his opponents were not first-rate fighters is just idle nonsense. True, some of the fighters were not that good, but neither were some of the men Joe Louis and Sugar Ray Robinson fought in their times.

But when it comes to the heavyweight championship match, good fighters or not, there's an aura about such a bout which causes the public to put it in a class by itself. Can you imagine all the hoopla, publicity and promotion for a bantamweight fight? The heavyweight championship match is the pinnacle of boxing and everyone is up for it! As for those people who felt that Clay was giving Terrell a savage beating for cruelty's sake, again that's a lot of hogwash. The same people who complain that Clay was cruel in the ring would be the first to urge a Clay opponent to "cut him up," "murder him," etc. Boxing was never a parlor game.

As for Terrell, he, like all the others Clay has fought, lost the fight for reasons other than ability. No one seems to lose to Clay because Clay is the better fighter; it's always something else that makes a Clay opponent lose the fight. With Ernie Terrell, it was rubbing his eye on the ropes of the ring. With others, it was a lucky punch, a bad back, an old chest injury, everything but Clay's fists.

Like him or not, wise guy or not, complete fool or not, Cassius Clay punched, danced and belted his way to the ownership of his throne. Now, of course, the belittlers will put down Clay because he didn't knock out Terrell. Well, Joe Louis in his prime couldn't put away Arturo Godoy, who make his niche as a fighter who fought sideways.

Again, the issue is to try to judge Clay as a boxer and not by what he says or does out of the ring. As a champ, he knows how to slip punches. He beat Terrell with Terrell's own best weapons, and I do not feel the fight was a disappointment. The champ is a good, fighting champ. Credit should be given where it's due.

Bruins Remain No. 1

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Louisville, Princeton, Western Kentucky and Kansas, four among the ranking teams which eluded an active Mr. Upset last week, have gained ground in the latest Associated Press major-college basketball poll.

Unbeaten UCLA, the only other team in the Top Ten to emerge without a loss last weekend, remained the poll's unchallenged leader. The Bruins, 19-0, were the unanimous choices for first place for the fifth straight week.

Vanderbilt, a top contender in the Southeastern Conference and Syracuse, 17-2, including 10 straight victories in its most recent games, are the newest members of the first 10. They replaced Providence and Boston College, two among the five ranking teams which were beaten in weekend games.

The Bruins, victors over Oregon State 76-44 and Oregon 100-66, collected all 32 votes for the No. 1 position in the latest balloting by sports writers and broadcasters based on games through last Saturday.

Louisville advanced to the runner-up position after defeating Drake 57-54 and Wichita 90-68. The Cardinals collected 27 points in the voting, based, as usual, on 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third etc.

Princeton, which had to claw like Tigers to beat Yale 81-80 and Brown 57-54, moved up one notch to third. North Carolina, an 82-80 loser to Georgia Tech, tumbled two places to fourth. The Tar Heels beat Virginia and Wake Forest earlier in the week.

Western Kentucky and Kansas each climbed one position, the Hilltoppers to fifth and Kansas to sixth. Western Kentucky beat Murray 88-79 in overtime and East Tennessee, 65-56. Kansas whipped Nebraska 84-58 and Kansas State 60-55.

Houston, an 87-78 loser to Notre Dame, slipped from fifth to seventh. Texas Western, despite its 69-56 setback by Notre Dame held the No. 8 spot.

Vanderbilt, 17-3 including a 10-2 mark in the SEC which places it a half game behind Tennessee, took over ninth place followed by Syracuse.

Providence, ninth a week ago, lost to Niagara 77-76 and Boston College, 10th last week, was upset by Fordham, 85-81.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-etc. basis:

1. UCLA (32)	320
2. Louisville	275
3. Princeton	222
4. North Carolina	203
5. Western Kentucky	180
6. Kansas	167
7. Houston	96
8. Texas Western	55
9. Vanderbilt	51
10. Syracuse	38

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Boston College, Brigham Young, Colorado State, Cornell, Dayton, Duke, Florida, Indiana, New Mexico, Providence.

Cards Sign Four

ST. LOUIS - Stan Musial locked four more signed Cardinal contracts in his safe tonight (February 13), bringing the number of Red Bird players satisfied with 1967 salary terms to an even two dozen.

Catcher Pat Corrales and Infielder Jimmy Williams dropped into the Cardinals' Busch Stadium offices to give the new General Manager their signed papers before they headed for St. Petersburg, Florida, and a special early instructional camp that is to begin Friday. In addition, Catcher Dave Ricketts and Infielder John Sipin sent theirs in by mail from their homes.

Corrales, a 26-year-old right-handed hitter from Fresno, California, is completely recovered from winter surgery to correct a torn cartilage in his right knee. He suffered the injury on the next-to-last day of the season when he twisted violently going after a wild pitch. Corrales, who came to the Cardinals the previous winter in a deal with the Phillies, appeared in only 28 games last season, and had a .181 batting average.

Williams drafted slightly over a year ago by the Cardinals, was kept on the Red Bird roster last season until he entered military service in August. The 23-year-old Californian (Arroyo Grande) appeared in only 13 games, and went to bat only 11 times. His average was .273.

The switch-hitting Ricketts, 31, had another great minor league season. The former Duquesne University basketball star who lives in Rochester, N. Y., batted .327 at Tulsa.

Sipin, a 20-year-old right-handed hitter from Watsonville, Calif., had a successful freshman year in organized baseball. A shortstop and second baseman, he hit .248 at St. Petersburg in 31 games and .233 at Cedar Rapids in 92 games.

Previously signed Cardinals are Pitchers Bob Gibson, Joe DiFabio, Jerry Pruett, Ron Willis, Steve Carlton, Hal Woodeshick, Mike Torrez, Harry Parker and Danny Jaster; Infielders Orlando Cepeda, Ed Spiezio, George Kernek, and Jose Arcia; Outfielders Tito Francona, Curt Flood, and Floyd Wicker and Catcher John Romano.

Lake Of Ozarks To Have Striped Bass

JEFFERSON CITY -- Fishermen at Lake of the Ozarks may soon be angling for a fish normally taken only along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. The Conservation Department will obtain about one and a half million striped bass eggs for hatching and stocking in the lake.

Stripers, or "rockfish", as they are sometimes called, have been introduced into a few large reservoirs, primarily in the southeastern states. It appears they would survive and contribute substantially to the fishery at Lake of the Ozarks as well. This will be considered an experimental introduction and the effects on the fishery will be carefully evaluated by fishery biologists.

Striped bass are native to bays, estuaries and coastal streams along the Atlantic Ocean. They were introduced into Pacific coastal streams many years ago and more recently in several large reservoirs. They are a member of the sea bass family, as are our native white bass which they resemble very closely. Unlike white bass, they can live for more than 40 years, and grow to more than 100 pounds. Most of those taken by anglers are from one to ten pounds. In his native habitat, a five-year-old usually weighs about five pounds, an eight - year - old about fifteen pounds, and a ten-year-old about twenty - five pounds. We hope they will do this well in Lake of the Ozarks.

Newly - hatched stripers feed primarily on tiny aquatic animals (plankton), as do most other fishes, with their food changing to insects and smaller fish as they grow. Adults seem to prefer members of the herring family, so are expected to feed on the abundant supply of gizzard shad which grow too large for black bass and most other predatory fish now present in the lake.

Spawning requirements of striped bass are quite specific, and there is considerable doubt that spawning will take place here, particularly after Kaysinger Bluff Dam is completed. In their native coastal stream, adult stripers swim 75 miles or more upstream to spawn when water temperatures reach about 65 degrees. The eggs drift downstream, sinking gradually until they hatch in about 72 hours. A relatively long and deep section of stream is required for this, as the eggs will not hatch if they touch bottom. The Osage River above Lake of the Ozarks might be suitable for this; however, Kaysinger Bluff Reservoir will flood most of this section of the river in Missouri. If they are unable to spawn successfully, future stocking by the department will be necessary. A source of supply is now available.

The department will buy the eggs and hatch them at one of its hatcheries. They will be reared through one summer in Union Electric Company's hatchery at Grand Glaize, after which the department will transport them and distribute them widely throughout the lake.

Stripers tend to travel in schools, much like white bass. During the summer months, they feed primarily at the surface, moving into deeper waters as the water temperatures cool in fall and winter. A wide variety of fishing methods is used, including spin - casting, trolling and bait fishing.

Stripers are considered excellent food fish, and their large size and fighting ability will whet the appetites of Missouri anglers.

THE ARMY NURSE CORPS

The Army Nurse Corps, soon to celebrate its 66th anniversary, is an all officer corps made up entirely of registered professional nurses.

Established in 1901, the Army Nurse Corps has served valiantly in two world wars, the Korean War and in Vietnam.

Today, there are approximately 4,350 nurses serving on active duty of which about 950 are men. Since 1955, qualified male nurses have been appointed as officers in the Army Nurse Corps. In addition there are presently 60 warrant officers nurses serving on active duty.

Applicants for a commission in the Army Nurse Corps must meet certain qualifications. The applicant must be a citizen of the U.S. or have been admitted into the country as a permanent resident. He or she must be between 20 and 35 years of age. Previous service can be credited as a waiver to the age requirement, provided the applicant can complete 20 years active service prior to age 55. The commissioned applicant must be a graduate of a school of nursing which offers either a diploma or a baccalaureate degree in nursing, accredited by the National League for Nursing and/or acceptable to the Department of the Army. The applicant must be currently registered to practice nursing in one of the states, the District of Columbia, or Puerto Rico. He or she must be well qualified to meet the high personal, professional, physical, and moral standards. Applicant may be either single or married.

Army nurses are stationed around the globe, serving in such places as Germany, Italy, Turkey, Vietnam, Alaska, and Hawaii. Opportunities for travel and professional advancement are found throughout the Army Nurse's career.

Members of the Army Nurse Corps are encouraged to pursue advanced academic and professional programs leading to graduate degrees in medically related fields.

Birds Of A Feather

Debby is turning the seed pods of the unicorn plant into curious birds, using only paint, sequins, and grass flowers.

Bet you don't know what Debby is using to make these curious birds! The seed pods of the unicorn plant. Plus the flower heads of grasses, paint and sequins. That's all. You can make these birds too — as many as you want — if you will first copy Debby and grow unicorn plants in your garden.

They're easy to grow, but seeds should be started indoors in spring, about 6 weeks before the date of the last killing frost in your area.

The plants bear pretty, pale yellow flowers with purplish spots. When they fade the seed pods form. You might give a few to Mother while they're still green, for they make delicious pickles. But, when pods brown and dry, you use them, for birds.

The long horn of the pod, shown just under the tail feathers of the left-hand bird in the picture, splits as the pod dries and forms the two legs of the bird. The end by which the pod was attached to the plant forms the beak.

All you need do is touch up the beak with any light or brightly colored paint, so it shows more distinctly; stroke a little paint along the sides of the pod to simulate feathers. Then paste a bright sequin above the beak for an eye and stick some tips of grass flower heads into the open end of the pod, above the "legs" to form tail feathers. Presto, a bird!

Play with the birds, use them for party favors, as place card holders or what you will. They're fun to make, fun to show your friends.

4-H Alumni Honored

Rankin — Mrs. Nichols — Matzen — Mrs. Rogers

Four Missouri 4-H alumni have carried the 4-H motto, "To Make the Best Better," throughout their careers and earned for themselves the 4-H Alumni Recognition plaque, donated by Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation.

One of the winners, Paul Matzen of Greenfield, was rated third-best poultryman in the state for his high-quality flock of 1,000 laying Leghorn hens.

Matzen, a farmer and hatcheryman, was only a 4-H member for one year in his youth, but was so impressed with the opportunities offered by the program that he has served as a 4-H leader for the last 22 years.

Each year for the last 10 years Matzen has donated a cash award for the outstanding 4-H showman in Cerro Gordo County, Iowa. He has served on his Methodist church board, on the Dade County, Mo., extension council, on the board of the Farm Bureau and as a judge at the Springfield District 4-H Fair.

Mrs. Virginia Nichols of Columbia won second prize in the state for her clothing project when she was a 4-H member. Since then she has shared the skills and opportunities she gained by serving as a leader of beef, clothing and gardening projects in the Boonville Eagles 4-H Club, which she helped to found.

Mrs. Nichols has also taught Sunday school, served as a Brownie troop leader and been treasurer of the National Secretaries Association.

Robert Rankin's award honored his contributions to 4-H, in which he was a long-time member, and to Tarkio, the community in which he was reared and has spent his career.

Rankin is a member of the Tarkio Chamber of Commerce, in which he has held several offices, and is chairman of the Tarkio Community Betterment Program. He is president of the Tarkio Rotary Club.

He has served for two years as president of the Missouri Livestock Feeders Association, a board member of the Missouri Hampshire Swine Association and as a Ruling Elder of the United Presbyterian Church.

He has served the Tarkio 4-H Club both as a community and a project leader. He was initiator of the swine gilt chain in the county for 4-H and Future Farmers of America members.

When he was a Boy Scout he attained the rank of Life Scout. He has since served as a scout master, district chairman, council vice chairman and a member of the executive board of the Pony Express Council. He is an honorary member of the Future Farmers of America.

Mrs. Earl Rogers, a Richards housewife, has served for two years as a community 4-H leader, and for 11 years as a project leader.

Mrs. Rogers serves her community as a Sunday school and Bible school teacher. She has been president of her Parent-Teacher Association, Extension Council and Home Extension Club.

The award winners were selected by the Cooperative Extension Service which directs 4-H work.

Canadians-100 Years Old Celebrate Centennial

Canada is about to be 100 years old, and 20 million Canadians are going to have a jumbo birthday celebration. Across the 5,000 miles of the country, people are planning events to mark this anniversary which signals Canada's first century of Confederation. The festivities began at Midnight, January 1, 1967, with parades and dancing in the streets, and continue throughout the year with a broad range of activities, from the everyday to the extraordinary.

"While celebrating, Canadians will be glancing backward", says John Fisher, the Commissioner of the Centennial, "and they will be looking forward to even greater achievement in their second century."

Over 2,000 communities are working feverishly to prepare for the Centennial. On the local level, there will be dogsled races, the dedication of new libraries and the refurbishing of town squares and parks.

Of national importance is the great Confederation Train which will travel through 700 cities and towns. The exhibits in it will colorfully chronicle Canada's stirring history. Tractor trailor caravans will cover another 670 communities.

The largest military tattoo ever produced in North America has been created especially for the Centennial. In it, 1700 authentically costumed marchers and musicians will recreate Canada's stirring military history from 1665-1967.

A highlight of the Centennial is Canada's World Exposition, Expo '67, in which 70 nations, including the U. S., are participating in Montreal.

Other Centennial events involve the performing arts. New plays, ballets and symphonies will be performed. There will be guest artists touring from abroad, and a film festival of great comedies.

In the area of sports, the Pan-American games will take place in the summer; in the winter, heretofore unscaled mountains will be climbed. There is a special athletics program for young people; and there will even be a balloon race.

All major faith groups will be involved in interfaith observances. The women of the country are involved in beautification projects, and business and industry are also lending a hand by sponsoring contests and symposiums.

This will be a year for Canadians to remember and for visitors to enjoy. At least 30 million people are expected to come to Canada for the exciting festivities.

BUBBLE BLOWERS will have their day in Canada's Centennial. There is virtually a contest for everyone to mark the country's anniversary of 100 years of Confederation.

America

The Statue of Liberty, America's symbol of freedom, stands as a beacon for those seeking escape from tyranny and oppression. Whoever seeks solace from her motto—"give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free"—will not seek in vain, for America continues to offer liberty and equality to all men.

People of many races and creeds from the far corners of the earth have suffered to reach the warm glow of freedom, bringing with them the culture, traditions, and customs of many countries to enrich America's heritage. Today, because of them, we stand unique among nations.

The settlers in the New World enjoyed new found freedoms which demanded courage, developed self-reliance, and ignited the fires of independence. The American revolution, fought to insure "no taxation without representation," struck an historic blow for the rights of man.

Most Americans can claim an interest in our heritage and its future because they have invested their energy and talent in our national development. Their efforts in peace and war have ensured the perpetuation of the Republic and an endowment for the future.

Independence, life blood of the American body politic people inseparable. An independent America, forged by courses through the land, one nation indivisible, one our forefathers in the crucible of liberty, and tested in the fires of civil war, now stands prominent among the nations of the world.

Courage to uphold democratic ideals has found America ever ready to defend herself and her allies against aggression. U. S. involvement in two major world wars, in Korea, and in Vietnam attest to her prompt, willing, and full support of the cause of liberty.

America, custodian of the past, guardian of the present and guarantor of the future, merits unswerving loyalty and fervent devotion—let us resolve to perform our Duty in Honor to our Country. (ANF)

Two Artists to Exhibit in Hayti Bank Show

HAYTI - Artist M. Charles Rhinehart and sculptor Harvey Mueller will be featured at an art show at the Bank of Hayti Feb. 19 with a reception from 1-4 p.m. The reception will be served by the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

Rhinehart is teaching art classes in Cape Girardeau. A self-taught artist, he lives and works in Ste. Genevieve, where he has a gallery and studio.

Until 1962, Rhinehart made his living from an outdoor advertising operation and church decorating. Then in 1962 he and his wife and 10 children decided to give up the business and derive their livelihood from his painting.

Now his paintings - nearly all oils - are found in collections in almost every state in the Union, including Alaska.

In 1964 he won the Popular Prize award in the mid-south show at Brooks Memorial Gallery, Memphis, and he has had one-man shows in Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis, and Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio. Twice he has been invited to show at the Illinois State Museum, and his works have been shown in the St. Louis Art Museum and the Springfield Museum.

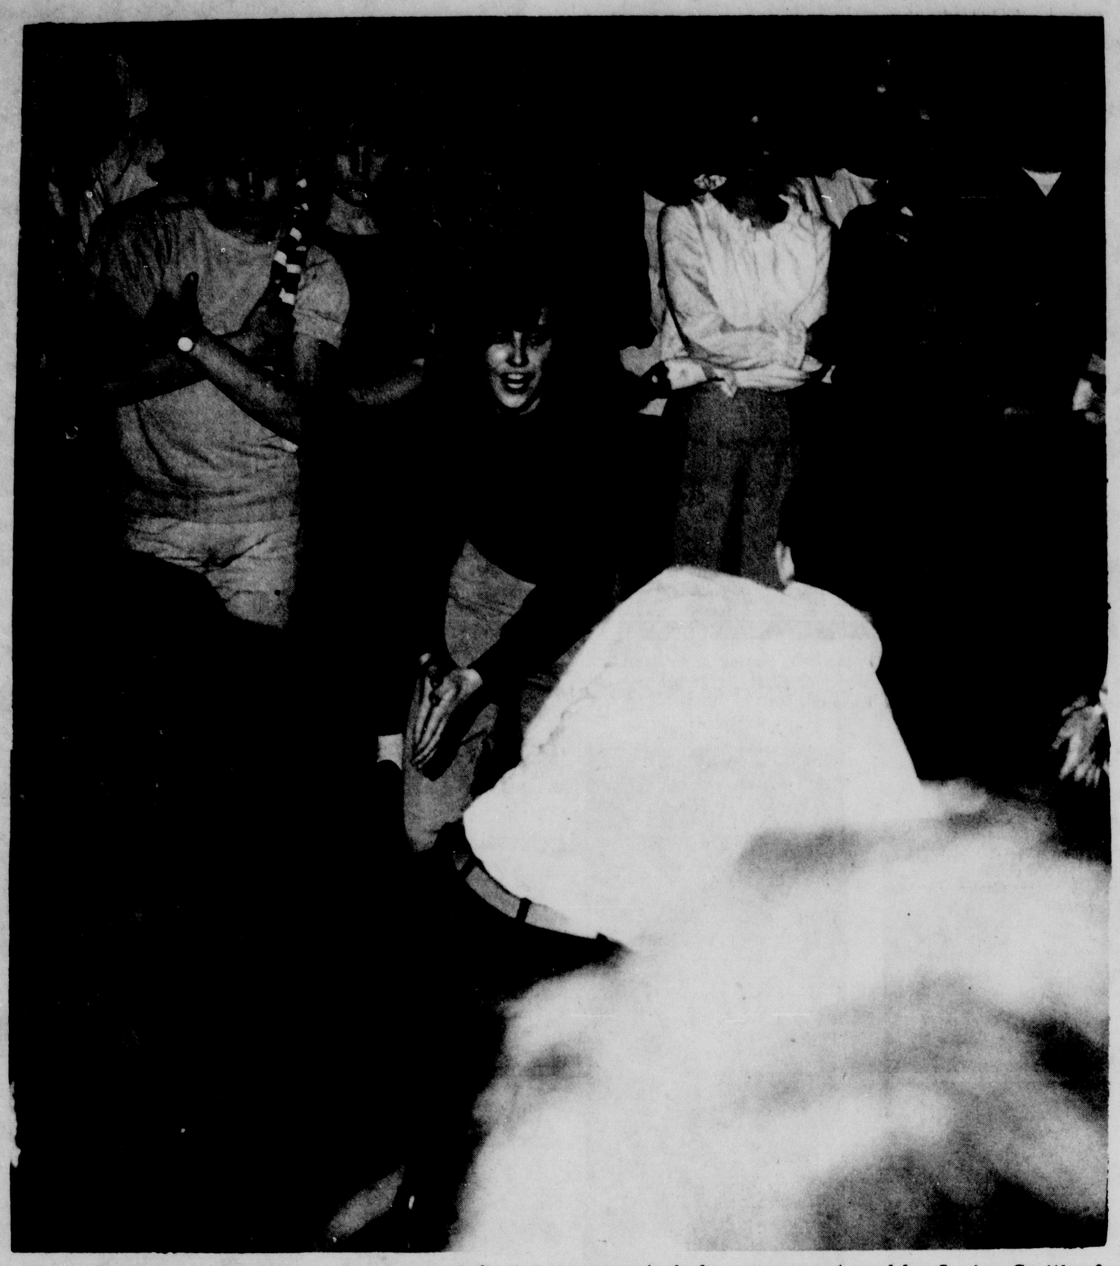
Mueller, who has completed work on his masters degree and sixth year specialist certificate at Southern Illinois University, is an art faculty member of the Belleville, Ill., Township high school and junior college.

He is best known for his weed pots. Flower pots are a common enough sight, but he introduces the Harvey Mueller weed pot. Some of them weigh almost a hundred pounds.

Mueller's honors include awards for sculpture and crafts in the Kirkwood, Crestwood, and South-County Art Fairs in St. Louis county; acceptance in the past three Mid-South Exhibits at Memphis, first prize for a crafts exhibit at the 1964 KETC art auction; acceptance in the 23rd National Ceramics Show at Syracuse, N. Y.,; a merit award in the Mid-States Exhibition at the Evansville (Inds.) museum of arts and science.

Sculpting is not the only talent of this native Missourian. He plays trumpet and has a 12-man band which performs in the SEMO area.

This will be the fourth two-man show for Rhinehart and Mueller. The others were at the Art Mart in Clayton, Richard Long Gallery in Kirkwood and Charleston art gallery.



SACROILIAC STRESSES reduced any deficit in payments balance encountered by Janice Smith of Bertrand and Dennis Barnes. They were $5 prize winners in the dance contest at Batman A-Go-Go.

"SHARED TIME" APPROVED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Jefferson City, Mo. -- The controversial "shared time" bill was passed last week by the House Education Committee by a vote of 15-11.

The bill, a part of the Governor's legislative program, would allow handicapped and educationally deprived pupils in private and parochial schools to attend special classes at public schools.

The vote on the bill was taken behind closed doors.

The bill was passed with one amendment which would stipulate that nothing on the law would lessen the authority and control of school boards over transportation, curriculum and scheduling.

Opponents argued at the hearing last week that such legislation would provide the openings for public subsidy of non-public schools. Proponents argued that all taxpayers should be able to benefit from public schools, regardless of whether it is on a part-time or full-time bases. Missouri law now prohibits a pupil from attending more than one school during the day.

House Education Committee Chairman James I. Spainhower (D-Marshall) said many House members have received mail opposing the bill which he feels is the result of careful study and based on the convictions of their constituents.

He added, however, that some of the mail opposing the bill is due to a great misunderstanding of its provisions in relation to a possible conflict between church and state.

"When people understand the measure, most will recognize the need for this legislation and lend their support," he said. Spainhower is a minister of the Disciples of Christ church and the sponsor of the bill in the House of Representatives.

He feels that a majority of the House will look with favor on the measure, but added that it is too early to make any definite predictions largely because of the controversial nature of the proposal.

SENATOR PROPOSES CIRCUIT ATTORNEY PLAN

The office of prosecuting attorney would be abolished in all 114 Missouri counties and replaced by 30 circuit attornies elected to four-year terms of office under a bill introduced in the Missouri Senate and supported by Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton.

Proposed by Sen. Earl Blackwell (D-Hillsboro), the measure would provide for a circuit attorney in outstate Missouri to maintain an office in each county within his circuit and appoint at least one assistant for each county in the circuit.

The prosecutor's title would be changed to circuit commissioner.

The Eagleton bill would not be effective until 1970, so circuit attorney would not run in presidential election years.

In his farewell address as head of the Missouri Assn. for Prosecuting Attorneys, the lieutenant governor committed himself to work for full-time circuit attornies throughout Missouri.

This bill would give the circuit attorney the same jurisdiction as the present circuit judge and would be a full-time post, prohibiting the part-time practice of law. Under the bill, circuit attorneys would be paid from the state general revenue fund a salary equal to that of the circuit judges in their district.

SENATE COMMITTEE APPROVES TOLL ROADS

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes's toll road proposal was unanimously approved last week by the Senate Roads Committee and was sent to the Senate floor for debate.

Under the governor's bill, Missouri would set up a toll road authority with the same membership as the State Highway Commission but with the addition of the Governor.

The measure permits the highway commission to lease roads from the toll road authority for an amount not less than the obligations against the toll road. This will permit the use of highway funds from sources such as the gas tax to be used to finance toll roads that are not entirely self-supporting.

The bill was amended to require the state authority to pay for the relocation of utilities and the construction of grade separations, rather than assess those costs against utilities and railroads.

HOUSE RECEIVES NEW REDISTRICTING BILL

A new congressional redistricting bill was introduced last week in the Missouri House by Rep. J. Anthony Dill (R-Affton). Under his plan, districts would vary from the population norm of 431,981 by only slighly more than one per cent for the largest district, the 1st in St. Louis, to slightly under one per cent for the smallest, the 9th of northeastern Missouri.

The bill is the closest to be introduced in compliance with the Supreme Court's one man-one vote rule.

Another bill by Sen. Omar H. Avery (D-Troy), with a population variance of about six per cent, is scheduled for its first hearing this week.

PORTAGEVILLE - It is difficult to name an activity involving business or pleasure that is not affected in some way by weather. Bootheel residents consult radio, television and newspaper daily for weather forecasts which help them plan their work, recreation or travel.

Southeast Missourians are particularly fortunate in having a weather bureau office located in the Bootheel devoted to weather problems of this specific area. This series of articles will explain the services available and how you can use them to obtain answers to your particular weather problem.

Let's first look at the variety of users who are continually concerned with the effect of the weather and climate of southeast Missouri. In later articles we will show the types of weather sensitive operations facing each user.

1. The agricultural operations that make up the major industry of the Bootheel are particularly vulnerable to changes in weather throughout the growing season.

2. Weather determines load imposed upon utility companies to supply power or fuel to the community.

3. Highway departments, state, county and city, adjust their workload to fit anticipated weather.

4. The construction industry uses weather forecasts to schedule most efficient use of workcrews.

5. Retail stores, clothing, appliance and grocery, plan their buying and sales emphasis to meet weather conditions.

6. The housewife, homemaker and family units plan activity to coincide with favorable weather trends whether it be housework, recreation, or pleasure trips.

7. Sportsmen are looking for particular weather conditions for their variety of outdoor pursuits.

8. Motorists, both local, and long distance travellers, profit by up-to-date weather information.

9. Aviators, amateur and commercial are constantly in need of weather information for local and cross country flights.

10. Commercial and recreational activity along the rivers are affected by weather in the local areas as well as conditions occurring hundreds of miles upstream.

"I'm a stock broker. Here's one thing I find that smart investors have in common."

"They start out with a specific goal in mind, usually one of these three: growth, income or safety."

Isn't it just a matter of making money?

"That's the idea, of course—to improve yourself financially. But the smart people in the market try to invest to help meet certain objectives they've set for themselves and their families, after first providing for living expenses and the usual emergencies."

But everybody must want growth?

"Of course. The country is growing and they want to grow with it. When we talk about growth as a goal, we mean growth in the value of the stock over a period of time. The investor is willing to leave his money in a stock, to ride over the normal ups and downs of the market, with the idea that his money will grow to help him in later years."

How can an investor pick a growth stock?

"If you take the stocks on the New York Stock Exchange as a whole, the record shows that their value has grown with the country over a period of years. Listed stocks are generally the biggest companies, with proven records. But there's no guarantee, of course, that any one stock will grow in any given period. The thing to do is ask your broker for facts and advice, then use your good common sense in estimating a company's prospects."

What if I needed more income to help me over some hurdles now?

"Then your primary goal would be to get a good dividend return, though you would still hope that the value of your stock would grow. Preferred stocks or bonds might be other ways to fill your need for a second income."

Where does safety fit in as a goal?

"There's some risk in any investment, whether securities or anything else. Your circumstances and your temperament may suggest a conservative approach. Then you'd look into the relative safety of principal with good yield that high-grade preferred stocks or bonds might offer."

If a goal is all that important, would you say that's the first thing an investor and broker should talk about?

"The very first. And don't feel the slightest bit shy about asking his opinion, if you're not completely sure what your goal should be. He's there to help, and if you and he have a good idea of what you want your investment to do—well, how could you make a better start?"

Senator Say U.S. Imposes Spending Programs on States

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- State Sen. Albert M. Spradling Jr. charged Wednesday that the federal government is imposing mandatory spending programs on the states at the same time that it is trying to cut into the states' taxing power.

The Democratic senator, in an appearance before the Cape Girardeau Lions Club, outlined the issues before the General Assembly this season, leaning heavily on the federal state relationship.

The Cape Girardeau senator told the Lions also that there has been a resurgence by the states and that a more conservative trend in politics is in the making.

"After the last election, a few of our congressmen have decided we can't give everything away," he commented.

Furthermore, Sen. Spradling said, the voters in the 21-27 age group, which he said by 1970 will make up more than half the total voting population, are a conservative group.

The big issue in Jefferson City this year, Sen. Spradling declared, is how successful the state will be in slowing down the federal government in its encroachment on the states' governing authority.

"On one hand, the federal government is telling us to spend our money on Medicaid, spend our money on highway beautification, but on the other hand, it is saying, 'we are going to have to take some more of the money'," Sen. Spradling stated.

Medicaid, the senator told his audience, is medical care for the near-needy, a term which the federal government has left to the states' definition. "Medicaid takes you from birth to 65; then Medicare takes over," veteran legislator remarked.

In New York, Sen. Spradling reported, "near-needy" is defined as having a net income of less than $6,000 per year.

Failure to adopt a Medicaid program by a certain time would result, the federal government has threatened, in loss by Missouri of some of its welfare funds, the Lions were told Wednesday.

The highway beautification bill - which Sen. Spradling called "the Lady Bird Bill" - would cost the states $2,000,000,000 for billboard removal, money which the Congress has not appropriated, he said.

The cost of removing billboards, Sen. Spradling went on, would build 120 miles of interstate road, where fatality rates are about half those of primary highways.

Failure to enact an acceptable highway beautification bill will result in loss by the state of 10 per cent of federal highway funds.

Sen. Spradling said neither the billboard law nor Medicaid as written by Missouri last year met the approval of federal authorities.

During that special session, he went on, half the legislation enacted by the Legislature was directed by the federal government under threat of loss of funds.

Sen. Spradling mentioned the federal Willis Bill, which would take away states' authority to tax businesses with interstate operations, a move which the Cape Girardeau Democrat said would cost Missouri $50,000,000 per year.

The multi-state tax compact he has proposed to the General Assembly would be an answer to the Willis Bill.

Sen. Spradling's remarks to the Lions indicated the trend may be reversing.

"I think you might see -- and I hope you will see -- some withdrawing by Congress so the states might be able to live and some backing up from the proposals made in the poverty program," he remarked.

The states are banding together through the Council of State Governments in an attempt to counter the federal encroachments, Sen. Spradling said. He has been active in that organization.

Increased attention to what is happening in Washington will be necessary, he said.

"It will be necessary to follow legislation, to hammer on congressmen and hammer on U.S. senators," Sen. Spradling remarked.

Congress was shaken, he said, by the adoption last year by 21 state legistures of a resolution which would have reversed the effects of Baker vs. Carr, the landmark reapportionment decision which has forced many states, including Missouri, to change the character of their legislatures.

On that point, Sen. Spradling said such proposed legislation as horse-racing and liquor on Sunday have a better chance of passage than in the past because of the reapportioned House of Representatives.

"We will probably get a test vote soon on one of these bills," the senator observed.

He pointed out that Kansas City and St. Louis are making bids for the state to pay their police departments.

"This will be the test this year," Sen. Spradling said.

On other issues, Sen. Spradling made these points:

Toll roads - Mail from this area is running heavily in support of the measure, by which southeast Missouri would probably be connected to the central part of the state.

Congressional reapportionment - Jefferson County and southern St. Louis County are no more interested in being in the 10th district than southeast Missouri is in having them. The senator said the result could be alternating rural and urban congressmen, with the district never accumulating seniority.

The banking revision - It was perfected this week after the branch banking amendment was killed. The code includes more modern features as well as securities and insurance codes.

The 150-page bill, Senate Bill 1 sponsored by Sen. Spradling, was pre-printed, he said, as part of an experiment in expediting the legislative process.

Sen. Spradling was flown to Cape Girardeau Wednesday for the Lions Club appearance and then returned by air to the state capital, where he had a committee hearing at 3 o'clock.

In charge of the program Wednesday was Maurice T. Dunklin.

Mississippi Governor's Wife Declines to Run

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) - Mrs. Paul B. Johnson Jr., wife of the Mississippi governor, dismissed speculation she might seek to succeed her husband in office, as happened in neighboring Alabama.

The 53-year-old First Lady of Mississippi told a news conference that her first duty was to her husband.

Mrs. Johnson said she had heard of the "Dot for governor" talk before Lurleen Wallace was elected governor of Alabama to succeed her husband, George. Mrs. Johnson said Mrs. Wallace "urged me to run."

Her news conference was hastily called after "Draft Dot Johnson for Governor" stickers appeared in Jackson.

Johnson, a Democrat, is barred by his state's constitution from seeking a second straight term, as was Wallace.

Court Hears New Use for Marijuana

HOUSTON, Tex. AP - James Ashton Tetlow, 41, pleaded guilty to a narcotics charge, saying he needed the marijuana to whip up a batch of cookies.

Tetlow said he first tasted marijuana cookies while working as a ship's cook off the coast of Acapulco, Mexico.

Jerald D. Mize, Tetlow's lawyer, said his client told him he ate five or six one morning while fixing breakfast, promptly went to sleep and stayed asleep through lunchtime.

Tetlow said he bought half a pound of marijuana in Mexico to bring home and try the recipe himself.

He will be sentenced after probation officers conduct an investigation.

"I've been on the bench for a long time but I never heard anything like that before," said U. S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Connally.

FINDING THE WAY

What Music Is Profane?

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It is a surprising, though understandable, edict which came from the Vatican, banning certain forms of music, especially that which is known as the "jazz mass." Surprising, because we had just become accustomed to the most revolutionary liturgical reforms. Understandable because jazz is noisy, discordant and strange to the uninitiated. In addition, it is more of a solo or concert form of music, in contrast to that expression which lends itself to congregational participation.

Nonetheless, there was a syncopated phrase in the edict. It referred to "music of a totally profane and worldly character." Yet the whole point of the Christian faith is that God is speaking in human flesh. It is a religion of the Incarnation. It is the invasion of that which men called the profane and the worldly, clothing it with new meaning.

As a result, some of our greatest chorales and hymns came into the church by way of taverns and public gatherings which were profane. The tunes of the people at play became also the tunes of the people at worship. Then, just as in the Old Testament, cymbals, tymbrels, dulcimers, bagpipes and flutes became the gladsome praise of the Lord.

Sidney Lanier said that "Music is love in search of a word." Some of it doesn't sound that way to my ears. Yet are we to dimension this desire to speak to the contemporary man who finds in this discordant statement that which witnesses more than the Gregorian chant or a Bach chorale sings to my ears?

Staid Westerners are accustomed to sitting in pews and being quiet observers: the Orthodox in Greece and Russia enjoy motion, with people walking about, kissing icons, participating instead of observing. What is disturbing to a Westerner is normal to another; what would be understandable in one situation would become dull conformity in another. The joyous "beat" of some congregations may be strange to the unaccustomed but the lack of an exultant "Hallelujah" or an echoing "Amen" would make it a dull experience to others.

Obviously it is proper for any church to determine the norm of its forms of worship. Yet we must also know that the Gospel must be communicated in this profane and worldly situation which we know as our environment. Into this world, the Word is shared. It might just be that the profane and worldly music could be the swaddling clothes!

The Prayer From The Upper Room

"The tax collector...beat his breast, saying, 'God, be merciful to me a sinner!" (Luke 18:13, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear Father, break the barrier of sin and deliver us from darkness and death. Save us and help us, we pray, that we may be disciples worthy of the name "Christian." For Jesus' sake.....Amen.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: I thought I had heard everything when all those nuts wrote in to tell you they sang at their own weddings and "everyone just loved it." Today I ran across some more evidence that people are getting buggier by the minute:

I see by the South Portland-Cape Elizabeth Journal that commencement exercises were held for dogs. The place was packed with proud "parents."

Down the aisle pranced a poodle, a collie, a Doberman, and so on - all wearing the traditional mortar board with hanging tassels. These dogs had completed their obedience classes and were presented with ribbon-tied diplomas. Their masters were as puffed up as if a son or daughter had made Phi Beta Kappa.

I am enclosing the newspaper story, complete with picture to prove that I am not hung over from New Year's. Thank you - STEADY READER

Dear Steady: To those who insist that education is going to the dogs, what better proof do you need? Thanks for my laugh for the day.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a boy 17 years old. My parents were divorced two years ago. Last year my mother remarried. My stepfather was very good to me until he began to slap my mother around. When I tried to protect her he would get mad at me for butting in and I'd catch it, too.

One night he knocked out Mom's two front teeth and she left him. Two months later they made up, he paid for some more new teeth, and then he knocked them out. They went back together three days before Christmas, but on Christmas Eve he hit her again. I told Mom if she went back to him again I was going to live with my Dad and his new wife.

I packed and left, only to find that my Dad and stepmother were fighting just like Mom and her second husband. I miss my school and my friends and I want to go back home but I can't decide if I should. Please tell me what to do. - BATTLE FATIGUE

Dear "B.F." It sounds as if one place is as bad as the other, and there's nothing you can do about it, so you might as well be with your friends and schoolmates.

It's a sad commentary when a 17-year-old boy has to write such a letter. I hope every pair of battling parents reads it and feels ashamed.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for seven years. We have three children.

I feel like I am living in the dark ages. My husband refuses to allow me to wear shorts in the summer or stretch pants in the winter. All the other young wives in the neighborhood dress this way and nobody thinks anything about it. My husbnd says he is against such clothing for religious reasons.

Religion is just as important to me as it is to him and I don't see anything sacrilegious about shorts or stretch pants.

What are your ideas on this? Thank you. - TEXAS WOMAN

Dear Woman: Some women look terrible in shorts and stretch pants and their husbands are opposed to them for this reason.

I say if a husband is opposed to shorts and stretch pants for ANY reason, a wife should respect his wishes. There are plenty of attractive skirts you can wear - and I hope you will.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 35¢ in coin.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE
By Jack Strauss LL.B

THE CASE OF THE BARBECUED LOVERS

Rodger's blooming romance was going to blooming pot under public observation. Consequently, he took his girl friend and drove to a neighboring town where he registered with her at a hotel as man and wife. Unfortunately, however, fate continued to observe him through a jaundiced eye. While things got pretty hot that night, it wasn't due to Rodger's jinxed romance. On the contrary, it was due to the carelessness of the hotel owner who very inconsiderately burned down the hotel.

Emerging from the ashes, Rodger and his would-be Juliet sued the hotel owner for the injuries.

"Being guests in his hotel," Rodger told the judge, "he had a duty to exercise care for our safety."

"Guest, my foot!" retorted the owner. "Since they were in my hotel under false pretenses, as man and wife, they were trespassers and not guests. I owed them no duty."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider Rodger a lodger so as to permit him and his girlfriend to collect?

This is how the Judge ruled: He sided with Rodger. In doing so, he held that false registration at a hotel does not effect the status of the occupants as guests of the hotel owner.

My friend's four-year-old boy Kevin sat admiring my little daughter's doll. Susan had made a nun's habit for it and was pinning a black net shawl over the doll's shoulders.

Kevin, obviously trying to think of something nice to say about it, reached over, fingered the shawl, and said, "What a lovely shawl! Such beautiful holes!"

Nothing keeps a good man down

(like a too-small education.)

It's sad. But true! Unless you've got a good education, you haven't got what it takes . . . to move up in the world today. Fact is, opportunities are few and far between for people who settle for less than a good education.

Don't let it happen to you. Get a good education while the getting's good . . . before you start to work. A good education qualifies you for a better job . . . a better salary . . . a better future, too.

So, if you're in school now . . . stay there! Learn all you can for as long as you can. If you're out of school, don't forget that there's plenty of valuable training available outside the classroom. For details, visit the Youth Counsellor at your State Employment Service. Remember, a good education isn't a luxury today. It's an absolute necessity.

To get a good job, get a good education

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Feb. 14, the 45th day of 1967. There are 320 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1778, the flag of the United States was first saluted by a foreign nation. The ship "Ranger", commanded by Capt. John Paul Jones, gave a 13 gun salute to the French flag as the vessel entered Quiberon Bay, France. The French returned the salute.

On this date:

In 1859, George Ferris, inventor of the Ferris wheel, was born.

Also in 1859, Oregon was admitted to the union.

In 1903, Congress created a General Staff Corps and provided for the appointment of a chief of staff of the U.S. Army.

Also in 1903, the Department of Commerce and Labor was created.

In 1912, Arizona was admitted to the union.

Ten years ago - Robert Tripp Ross, assistant secretary of defense for legislation and public affairs, resigned his post, saying his future effectiveness had been impaired. This because of newspaper reports of a Senate investigation of an Army contract awarded to his wife's firm. Ross denied any conflict of interest or violation of the law or of the ethical code.

Five years ago - the Council of the Organization of American States formally completed the expulsion of Cuba from participation in the affairs of the organization.

One year ago - Two Soviet writers were convicted by a Russian court of harming the Communist regime of the Soviet Union in books published abroad. The two were given long sentences in a Soviet labor camp.

"savagely raided" but gave no details.

The first Navy action off North Vietnam after the six-day cessation also came before dawn today when the destroyer Cunningham reported it set three cargo craft afire 18 miles north of Dong Hoi.

The Navy said North Vietnamese shore batteries on islands near the city of Vinh opened fire later in the day on the destroyer Strauss. The destroyer suffered no damage, fired back and the batteries ceased fire, the Navy reported.

In addition to the record number of fighter-bomber strikes in South Vietnam Monday, Air Force B52s flew in from Guam for three strikes Monday night and today against suspected enemy positions in the south.

Monday night they pounded a target 16 miles southwest of Da Nang and another one about 310 miles north of Saigon. This morning they struck an enemy base camp 12 miles south of Hue.

The Air Force, announcing its pilots flew a record 378 sorties in the south, said bombs triggered four large secondary explosions.

Marine pilots flew an additional 157 sorties, U.S. spokesmen said.

U.S. authorities also announced that units of the 101st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade have killed 25 guerrillas and rounded up 24 suspects since opening Operation Gatling 2 Feb. 5 about 98 miles northeast of Saigon.

peace is and will remain open and we are prepared at any time to go more than halfway to meet any equitable overture from the other side."

Officials reiterated this meant North Vietnam must scale down its military operations if U.S. bombing of the north is to be halted.

It appeared logical, sources said, that U.S. bombing attacks would be intensified in the next few days or weeks in an effort to eliminate advantages Viet Cong and North Vietnamese fighting units may have gained during the 138-hour bombing lull.

During the past week, Secretary of State Dean Rusk emphasized the United States would not halt the bombing of North Vietnam without some reciprocal move by the Communists.

Long Offers Privacy Act

WASHINGTON -- U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long (D-Missouri) introduced the right of privacy act to protect American citizens from government and private wiretapping and electronic bugging.

Senator Long said the bill as recommended by President Johnson in his state of the union and crime messages "will make illegal all wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping with the exception of national security matters."

The bill will also make illegal the advertisement, manufacture or shipment of wiretapping and eavesdropping devices. Penalty under this provision is a $25,000 fine or one year in prison, or both.

Under present law, "the department of justice felt it could not prosecute state and local officers for wiretapping even when they have publicly violated Section 605 (of the Federal Communications Act of 1934)" Senator Long said.

Senator Long pointed out that there is no federal law on bugging or other forms of electronic snooping.

Long said, based on two years of investigations by his senate subcommittee, anarchy has existed because of the lack of clear laws on wiretapping and snooping. "Electronic anarchy has existed and the victim has been the American people," Senator Long said.

"In 1934, Congress enacted the federal communications act of which section 605 prohibited the interception and divulgence of telephone calls," Senator Long said.

"In 1937, the supreme court held that section 605 applied to law enforcement officers as well as private citizens. But, in 1941, the justice department came up with a unique and strained interpretation of section 605," Senator Long said. "The attorney general held that a violation of Section 605 required both interception and divulgence outside the government." he said.

"Thus," Senator Long said, "government agents could wiretap so long as the government did not divulge wiretap information in the courts."

"This rule, as a practical matter cut the heart out of Section 605. It opened the door to Federal law enforcement wiretapping," Senator Long said.

Long said that while other Administrations had sought laws permitting wiretapping and eavesdropping, President Johnson "is supporting a bill to strengthen the statutory protection of the citizen's right of privacy."

Senator Long promised to hold hearings on the new right of privacy act "within the near future."

Fortas to Deliver Lecture in Law

COLUMBIA, MO. (AP) - The 1967 Earl F. Nelson Lecture in Law will be delivered the night of April 5 at the University of Missouri by Abe Fortas, associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The memorial lectures were established in 1954 in honor of the late Earl F. Nelson, who was a member of the Missouri Law School Foundation and the school's board of curators.

Bond Vote May 2

City council members Monday night set May as the tentative date for a revenue bond issue election for the purchase of the Missouri Utilities Company facilities in Sikeston.

City officials and the utility company officials agreed on a contract price of $950,000 for the purchase of transmission lines and facilities at a meeting in Cape Girardeau Feb. 6.

The contract, has not been signed. The company must obtain the permission of the Missouri Public Service Commission in Jefferson City and has asked the city to have representatives at the hearing to assure the PSC that city facilities have the capacity to serve the town.

The hearing is expected to be held in a few weeks, and the contract is expected to be signed in March.

The purchase of the facilities also is contingent on a revenue bond issue being approved by Sikeston voters.

Council members discussed the contract terms with members of the board of public works.

An election date for the election was the main issue discussed. Officials wanted to be sure the election date did not interfere or conflict with other elections for school board members and bonds, the city council election April 4, or the Associated Natural Gas Franchise election in August.

Six Bands to Matthews Event

MATTHEWS -- The central division of the Southeast Missouri Junior High Band Festival will be held Thursday.

Six bands will take part in the day's clinic sessions and will perform for the public at 7 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door.

The bands attending will include Sikeston's 8th grade band, Charleston's junior high band, East Prairie's junior high band, Matthews junior band, Oran and Doniphan school bands.

13 Charged With Speeding; TV Set Taken

Thirteen Sikeston residents were arrested on Murray Lane and Tanner street Monday and charged with speeding, police reported:

Lonnie Biggs, 126 Sixth; Lucien Stoner, 706 Hickory; Naomi Caudle, 209 Mill Row; David Laird, 712 East Gladys, and Mary C. Moore, 822 William.

Also charged with speeding are: John Scarbrough, 611 Carroll; Commodore York, route four, Sikeston; James R. Robinson, 705 Allen; Jerry W. Helmes, route two, Sikeston; Jerry M. McMackin, 219 West Gladys, and Bill L. Munger, 840 East Tanner.

Three persons were charged with driving without a city automobile license: Eddie Dunn, 834 East Kathleen, Melvin Taber, 403 Ruth, and Donald Knotts, 666 Park.

A portable television valued at about $125 was reported stolen from the Rail Haven Motel, 1701 East Malone, early Monday morning by a couple who had rented the room. Police are investigating.

Tommy Helms, St. Louis, was charged by police Monday with peace distrubance on West Malone.

James Applewhite, 333 Luther, was charged late Monday with curfew violation.

House Votes Pay Raise

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Missouri House members voted themselves a pay raise today by passing a bill that would increase their salaries from $4,800 to $9,000 a year.

The House speaker would be raised to $12,000.

It passed by a vote of 92 to 68, although many rural members voiced opposition to the size of the increase.

Earlier this month, Rep. Don Kennedy, D-Nevada, introduced a resolution that would have set up an independent commission to study legislative pay and recommend a figure.

He said today the commission would have time to make its study and report to the House by mid-May and still give the legislature time to act.

Two of the governor's major school bills moved ahead in the Senate Monday and one passed the House.

Passed and sent to the Senate 144-10, was a bill to provide state aid to kindergartens at an estimated cost of $5,162,100 the first year.

The Senate advanced a similar bill to position for passage on a 31-1 vote.

Also moved ahead was a bill to liberalize the school foundation program formula by $9,975,000 a year.

But one to allow fast growing districts to count current year estimated attendance in figuring state aid, instead of last year's actual figures, ran into trouble and had to be laid over.

The House also gave first round approval to a bill to extend liquor sales to 1:30 a. m. Sunday on a statewide basis instead of the Saturday midnight closing required outside of Kansas City and St. Louis.

But a bill recommended by the governor to increase maximum unemployment compensation payments to one-half the average weekly wage in the state encountered opposition. It was finally advanced, however, on a close vote.

Monday night the House chamber and the Capitol halls were jammed with 15 busloads of people from Kansas City and St. Louis. They came to urge support of a bill recommended by the governor to let unemployed fathers live at home and still allow the family to get aid to dependent children.

Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter said the present law is a failure and often tends to keep families apart instead of together.

No immediate action was taken. Similar bills have run into strong opposition in the Senate in the past.

Earlier Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Clayton, sought to have a workman's compensation bill returned to the House on grounds seven St. Louis Democratic representatives who live outside their districts had voted for it illegally.

Jones' motion was overruled on the theory that the House is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members.

Jones said he wanted his motion on record so the question could be tested in the courts.

Bullet Fatal To Former Bell Citian

ST. LOUIS -- James Griffin, 20, formerly of Bell City, was accidentally shot and killed by his brother, Ronald, 26, while the two were cleaning a 22-caliber revolver, at their apartment, Monday night, police said.

Griffin was pronounced dead on arrival at city hospital.

Born July 26, 1946, at Sikeston, Griffin spent his childhood at Vanduser and moved to Bell City in 1960. He was a 1964 graduate of Bell City high school. He had been employed as a welder for General Metal Products Co.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. "Murphy" Griffin, Bloomfield; three brothers, John and Richard Griffin, Bloomfield, and Ronald Griffin; four sisters, Mrs. Betty Emerson, Morley; Mrs. Sandra Abner, Bell City, and Marsha and Sharon Jane Griffin, Bloomfield, and the paternal grandmother, Mrs. W. J. Griffin, Vanduser.

The body is being returned to the Chiles - Cooper Funeral Home at Bloomfield.

Fire Damages Shed

A trash fire spread by high winds caught and damaged a storage shed in an alley behind Houchin's Do-Nut - Drive-In, 417 West Malone today.

Firemen were called at 11:12 a.m. and extinguished the blaze rapidly. No serious damage was caused.

Many Defeated Demos On Federal Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP) — A good many Democratic congressmen beaten in the Republican election sweep last November are back on the federal payroll.

Half have landed federal positions, are looking for them, or have been named to high positions in their states.

Former Rep. David S. King of Utah was appointed by President Johnson as U.S. ambassador to the Malagasy Republic off the southeast coast of Africa.

Half a dozen others have become high-level administrators in scattered federal agencies. More are consultants and lesser officials in a variety of federal programs.

Fifty-two Democratic congressmen were defeated in last year's primaries and general elections. So far 17 have federal appointments and jobs, at least 5 are looking and 4 are in line for positions in states and the Democratic party.

The other 26 defeated Democrats returned to law practices and other private positions back home, retired or are still in Washington but plan to return home soon.

Twenty-seven of the Democrats who rode into Congress on the Johnson tide in 1964 went right back out on the Republican resurgence last fall. But they generally have fared well.

Nine have federal jobs, four more are looking and three have state positions or are leading contenders for them.

Patronage? A Democratic congressional staff member says it's no such thing.

"We help them make contact when we can," he said, "but they have to rely on their own merit when they go down for the job.

"We're certainly not in a position to say 'yes,' 'no' or 'maybe' on whether they're hired."

But he added that congressional experience with federal programs often gives ex-officeholders an advantage over other applicants for the same jobs.

It would seem a congressman's voting record on proposals from a hiring agency also might help. But Democratic leaders concede no such influence.

There's little question the November defeats put some experienced men on the job market.

Former Rep. Clair Callan of Nebraska, a House Agriculture Committee member during his one term, has become deputy administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration.

President Johnson named Thomas G. McGrath Jr. of New Jersey as general counsel of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Kenneth W. Dyal, a former California postmaster, now is regional post office director in San Francisco.

Former Rep. Lindley Beckworth of Texas, a 24-year House veteran, was appointed by Johnson to a U.S. Customs Court judgeship in New York City.

Virginia Rep. W. Pat Jennings turned to old House colleagues for his job after November. They elected him House clerk.

Girls Intrigued by Valentine Custom

NEW YORK AP - Girls, what would you think of receiving a giant, hand-carved wooden spoon with engraved hearts and your initials for Valentine's Day today?

That's the way the Welshmen did it in the 18th and early 19th centuries. The spoon symbolized housekeeping. The idea was to express the boy's earnest desire to win the girl's intention to marry him. It's spooning, if you please.

"I think it's a very touching custom," said Ellen Schaut, a 19-year-old student at the Pittsburgh Art Institute. She commented in a sampling of opinion on the practice by The Associated Press.

Miss Schaut's roommate, Mickey Spillane - yes, she's a girl - also thinks it's a touching idea. Miss Spillane, 23, suggested however, that "if you don't like the guy, you can always hit him over the head with it."

"Too out of date for today's male," was the reaction of Cathie McSweeney, a 20-year-old junior at the University of California at Los Angeles.

"It's a symbol of household drudgery that should have been abolished years ago," remarked Corinne Guntzel, 24, a pert brunette PhD. candidate in economics at the Uni-

Dexter Pool Grant

DEXTER - The city of Dexter was informed today that the interior department in Washington has awarded a $50,000 grant to the city for construction of a swimming pool and bathhouse.

Final approval of the grant enables the city to advertise for construction bids.

Gary Dowdy, chairman of the swimming pool committee for the Junior Chamber of Commerce, said today that the committee will meet Monday with the city council and engineers to make final plans so that bids can be advertised.

It is expected that bids will be advertised within two weeks.

The drive to provide a public swimming pool for Dexter has been a joint effort of the Jaycees and the park board.

The federal grant is for matching funds. Last Nov. 15 voters approved a $75,000 bond issue for the swimming pool and park improvements.

Cost of the pool and bathhouse is $100,000. The other $25,000 from the bond issue will be used for improvements to Airport park, where the pool will be located. The city's request for $25,000 in matching funds for these improvements was turned down by the federal government in October.

Plans call for an L-shaped pool, 42 by 165 feet, with a 40 by 40 foot diving well. A wading pool 40 feet in diameter will be provided for smaller children.

The pool will accomodate 624 persons, which is regulation capacity set by the state.

Completion of construction is expected in late summer, Dowdy said. The pool may be open briefly before the summer ends.

Assault Case Goes to Jury

An assault case tried in magistrate court this morning went to the jury before 1 p.m. today.

Martin Eugene Abbott was tried on a charge of assault against his wife.

Abbott and his wife Ruby Ann are still legally married. They were separated Dec. 26, 1966.

Prosecuting Attorney Fielding Potashnick asked for the maximum punishment of six months in jail and a $100 fine in his opening statement to the six-man jury. Magistrate John Sides presided.

Abbott was charged with assault on the night of Jan. 17. He was accused of dragging his wife from one automobile by the hair of the head, striking her and scratching her, and dragging her along side the car while holding one of her arms inside the moving car.

Mrs. Abbott testified that her husband came to the house at 419 Kendall where she was living with two other women, her sister Betty Mavis Riley and Sandy Evans.

She said she was asleep when her husband arrived and spoke to him through the door asking him to leave.

Her husband left in his car. Then, she said, she left in her sister's car to see if he went after their child who was being kept by her parents in Blodgett.

She returned to the house on Kendall in about 20 minutes and found Abbott sitting in his car in front of the house. She said he came over to the car she was sitting in, dragged her by the hair to his car, got in the car and held one of her arms inside the car and started driving, dragging her alone side. She said she managed to turn the steering wheel to make him stop the car, and then got away from him.

Miss Evans then went after a policeman, and Abbott was arrested later.

Bess Truman Marks 82nd Birthday

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. AP - Bess Truman has celebrated her 82nd birthday quietly at home in Independence, Mo.

As leary of personal publicity as when she was the nation's first lady, she declined Monday to have her picture taken.

"You know the answer to that one," she said when asked to pose for photographers.

Vigorous and alert, she continues her quiet social life and is usually the chauffeur when she and former President Harry S. Truman go out for brief afternoon drives.

The United States had an average of 50.5 persons per square mile of land at the end of the 1960 census.

Prospects For Peace Plunge

WASHINGTON AP - The North Vietnamese used 3,770 trucks and vessels to rush at least 25,000 tons of ammunition and equipment toward South Vietnam during the bombing pause, the Defense Department said today.

This was calculated to be enough to support a 10,000-man division in combat for 250 days, a spokesman said.

In the 96 hours of the Tet truce, the Communists were able to transport more war material southward than they had in any previous 30-day period, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, Vietnam peace prospects appeared at their lowest level in two months today as Monday's resumption of the U. S. air war against the speculation.

U. S. officials said peace efforts had receded to their pre-Christmas position.

President Johnson, in announcing the resumption of bombing late Monday, said he had hoped the cease-fire during the lunar new year "might lead to some abatement of hostilities and to moves toward peace."

But he said the North Vietnamese had used the pause "for major re-supply efforts of their troops in South Vietnam."

Johnson apparently referred to Sunday night's meeting in London between Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson when he said: "Despite our efforts and those of third parties, no other response has yet come from Hanoi."

Johnson earlier had indicated determination to resume the air war in the absence of any North Vietnamese easing of military activity.

But the North Vietnamese insisted on a halt in U.S. bombing and withdrawal of troops before peace talks could get started.

North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh made this clear in a reply to Pope Paul's appeal for an early settlement of the conflict.

Ho wrote, "The U.S. imperialists must put an end to their aggression in Vietnam, end unconditionally and definitely the bombing and all other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, withdraw from South Vietnam all American and satellite troops, recognize the South Vietnam National Front for Liberation (Viet Cong) and let the Vietnamese people settle themselves their own affairs."

That appeared a re-statement of conditions previously rejected by the United States.

Peace hopes began building up about two months ago when North Vietnamese officials dropped hints negotiations "could" start if the U. S. bombing was permanently halted.

There have been three truce intervals since December and diplomats had been particularly hopeful that the latest might bring a breakthrough in the quest for a peace formula.

In his White House statement, Johnson said, "The door to

Wilson Speaks Of Plan for Bringing Peace

LONDON (AP) - Prime Minister Harold Wilson reported today the existence of an initiative - a plan - which he said "could bring peace tomorrow" to Vietnam.

He told the House of Commons only a very small move was needed to set into motion "all the very complicated machinery that could bring us to peace."

The prime minister, answering questions in the House of Commons on his talks with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, gave no details of this initiative or plan.

Wilson said there were moments during his talks with Kosygin last week when peace negotiations "could have been very near." But he said these two elements were lacking:

"A general realization that sooner or later there must be a political settlement, and secondly, the necessary degree of trust and confidence on the part of each of the nations fighting in this war about the sincerity of the desire of the other to work for a negotiated political settlement."

Wilson said the massive movement of men and material from North Vietnam to the south had been greater than in any previous trace period. This, he said, "made it harder for the North Vietnamese leaders wished to use the truce for an effort toward peace, rather than for a further effort in war."

Library Bill Opposed by City Board

The public library board decided yesterday afternoon to oppose a bill introduced in the Missouri House to rewrite the state's law governing public libraries.

Members said they opposed the bill because it increased the power of the Missouri library commission, offered the prospect of high taxation and would not benefit the Sikeston public library.

Under the bill the library commission would certify newly appointed librarians, who must be permanently employed, hold a college degree in library science.

The regulation would not apply to existing librarians but it was attacked as unreasonably restrictive and unfair.

Chairman Norval Cannon instructed the Librarian Lenora Norman to inform State Reps. Tony Heckemeyer and David Rolwing, Charleston, and State Sen. A. M. Spradling Jr., Cape Girardeau, of the board's opposition.

The legislative proposal, house bill 223, was introduced by Rep. Harold Dickson, California, Mo., Republican, with the endorsement of the Missouri Library association.

Court Sets Hearing for Next Week

A preliminary hearing for Robert Farris, Sikeston, charged with assault today was set for next Tuesday in magistrate court. Bond was set at $1,000.

Magistrate John Sides presided. Assistant prosecuting attorney Tom Gilmore represented the state. Those accused, the charge and disposition of the cases:

Alouise C. Fenton, Charleston, speeding, fined $27.50 and costs.

Ronnie Worth, Sikeston, assault, dismissed on payment of costs.

Charles D. Glenn, New Madrid, driving an unregistered vehicle, fined $5 and costs.

Bobby R. Barrick, route four, Sikeston, illegal possession of intoxicants, fined $50 and costs.

Zural Satterfield, Dexter, driving an overweight truck, fined $10 and costs.

Leonard Jackson, 306 Sunset, speeding, fined $27.50 and costs.

James Moilinauex, Johnson Acres, careless and imprudent driving, fined $10 and costs.

William E. Lingle, 314 West Murray Lane, careless and imprudent driving, fined $10 and costs.

Air War Back at Full Tilt

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) - The air war returned to full swing today on both sides of the border. U.S. fighter-bombers pounded railways and other supply routes in North Vietnam. Radio Hanoi declared two planes were shot down. U.S. Navy vessels attacked North Vietnamese shipping.

Peking and Pyongyang broadcast pledges of continued support for the Viet Cong from Red China and North Korea. The messages to the guerrillas were signed by Defense Ministers Lin Piao of China and Kim Chang Bong of North Korea.

There was no immediate comment here on Hanoi's story of the downing of two planes. If confirmed, the official list of American losses north of the border would rise to 475.

In South Vietnam allied forces reported only light contact with the enemy, but U.S. Air Force and Marine pilots flew a near record 535 sorties in support of sweeping infantrymen Monday. The American record for one day of such single combat flights in South Vietnam is 549, set last Jan. 13.

U.S. spokesmen also announced that seven men of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Airmobile, Division were killed and four were wounded Monday night when five rounds of their own artillery landed among them.

The spokesmen also announced that one man of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division was killed Sunday and 14 were wounded when a U.S. plane's bomb went astray during an operation. However, a claymore mine went off in the same area just before the bomb explosion, and the spokesmen said it might have caused some of the casualties.

The first American air strike against the Communist north since the lunar new year truce began last Wednesday morning was made at 1:07 a.m. by two Air Force F4C Phantoms. They attacked the Vinh Tuy highway bridge seven miles south of Dong Hoi, the U.S. Command said.

Navy A6 Intruders pounded rail facilities in half a dozen areas in the North Vietnamese panhandle.

Poor weather conditions limited the air raids to the panhandle area and hampered damage assessment estimates. The Air Force announced its pilots flew 12 missions - about 36 planes - in the first five hours after the bombing pause ended.

A U.S. spokesman said there "definitely were further" strikes throughout the day.

U.S. military authorities announced today that before the bombing pause ended, a Navy RA5C Vigilante reconnaissance plane was shot down south of Haiphong Sunday. They said the two pilots managed to get the plane over the Gulf of Tonkin and bailed out, and an Air Force amphibian and a Navy helicopter flew through small-arms fire from nearby junks to rescue the men a half mile off shore.

It was the second reconnaissance plane downed in the north during the bombing pause and the 473rd American plane reported lost in North Vietnam.

North Vietnam's Vietnam News Agency, announcing the resumption of U.S. air strikes, claimed that the Americans bombed and strafed "many populated areas and economic establishments" in the provinces of Thanh Hoa, Ninh Binh and Nam Ha. It said the town of Phu Ly, in Nam Ha Province, was

UFOs Discounted as Threat To Security

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) -- Reports of unidentified flying objects -- UFOs -- boomed last year, reports Maj. Hector Quintanilla, director of Project Blue Book at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

But whatever the sightings are, it's a safe bet they offer no threat to national security and don't come from outer space, the Air Force says.

A total of 1,060 sightings were submitted to the Air Force during 1966, second highest total since Blue Book began keeping tabs 20 years ago. The annual average is 555, the record 1,501 in 1952.

Of the 11,107 sightings since 1947, Quintanilla says, just 676 remain in the unidentified category. Only 30 of those checked out last year haven't been explained satisfactorily.

Another 242 sightings are listed as having insufficient data for identification.

The rest were identified as astronomical objects, aircraft, balloons, satellites and other natural or man-made items such as missiles, rockets, fireworks, clouds, birds, swamp gas, sparks, and a lighthouse.

To date, Project Blue Book — the Air Force's investigative authority on aerial phenomena — offers these "firm" conclusions:

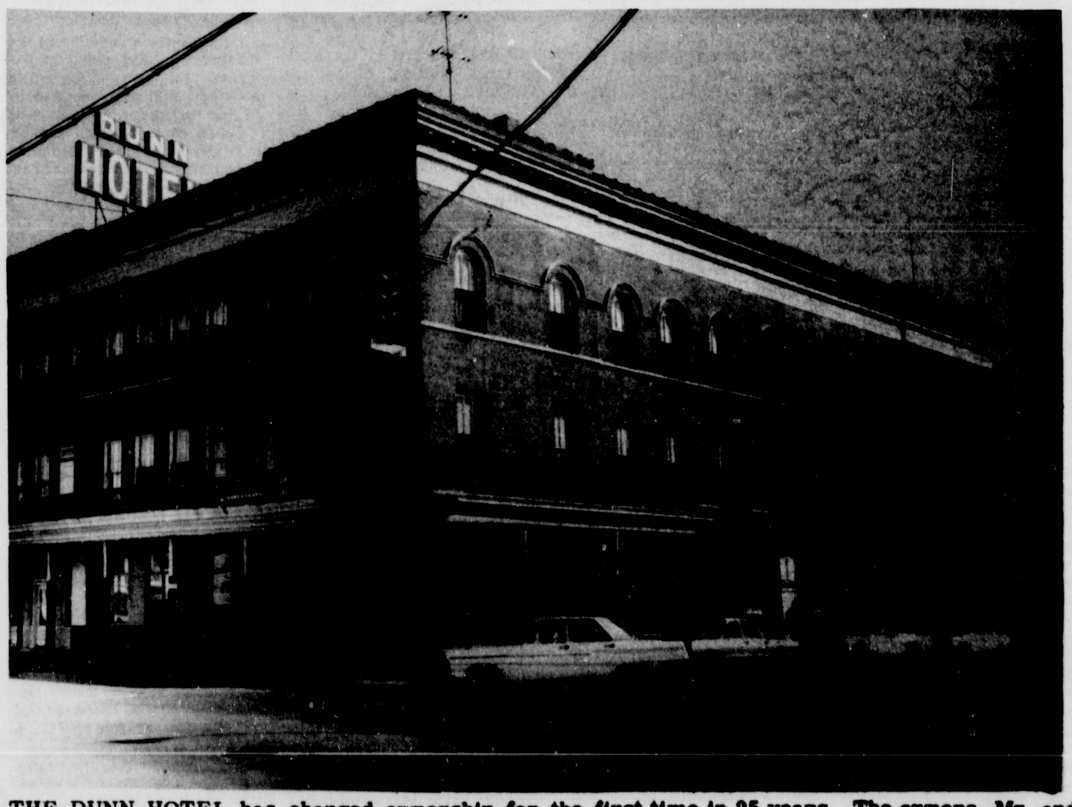
1. No unidentified flying object reported, investigated and evaluated by the Air Force has ever given any indication of threat to U. S. security.

2. No evidence has been discovered to indicate that any sightings categorized as unidentified represent technological development or principles beyond the range of present-day scientific knowledge.

3. There has been no evidence that any unidentified sightings were outer space vehicles.

A sighting is considered unidentified, the major says, when a report apparently contains all pertinent data necessary to suggest a valid cause or explanation of the report, but the description of the object or its motion cannot be correlated with any known object or phenomenon.

Meanwhile, sightings continue. The Weather Bureau at Cincinnati was swamped with UFO calls Monday— all evidentaly connected with a weather balloon. Its instrument-packed gondola, believed launched at Palestine, Tex., fell to earth in a strip mine pit in southeastern Ohio.



THE DUNN HOTEL has changed ownership for the first time in 25 years. The owners, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dunn of Poplar Bluff, sold the structure to R. D. Clayton, who in turn sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Dearmont Oliver of East Prairie. The three-story building with 52 rooms will be remodeled.

80 Per Cent of Adult Trainees Employed

One hundred and ninety two adults who have been trained in the multi - occupation program now are employed, William F. Sikes, director of the manpower development and training program, said last night.

He reported that the figure, representing 80 per cent of the 235 trained at the facility, was better than his expectations when the federal program began in July of 1965. The program is sponsored by the departments of labor and education.

There are now 162 trainees studying 10 occupations.

Sixteen per cent have dropped out of the program for various reasons but Sikes reported few trainees encountered trouble "with the law" in a speech to the Rotary club at the Rustic Rock Inn.

"Community cooperation has been good," he said.

An average of about 200 trainees receiving $55 a week releases approximately $11,000 a week and more than a half million dollars a year into Sikeston business channels, he said.

Sikes said that the program aided industry by providing basic training for employes.

Two of the limitations experienced in the program have been trying to teach people to learn how to read in 12 weeks and in attempting to assist the mentally retarded, "who need more help than we can give."

Referrals are made by the employment security commission, which also places the graduates of the program in jobs. Most of the students have been on some form of public assistance program.

"A majority of them want to work," Sikes said.

Sikes was introduced by Lennie Whitworth.

Charles Green led the singing accompanied by Mary Ann Bruce at the piano.

Dr. Ralph Wiggins was a guest of Dr. Frank Sisson.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

The widespread availability of electronic bugging devices, which do not require any wire tapping, suggest that the only sound course for the United States government to follow is to accept the idea that the privacy of citizens isn't what it once was.

This observation is made reluctantly but it is foolhardy to advocate prohibition of the use of these devices to protect the national security and fight organized crime when they can easily be used against the government by enemies of this country and by foes of society.

The right to determine when they are used should be given to the courts on a prior basis, similar to the granting of a warrant for search and seizure. It should not be left to the attorney general or other federal official. There is too much danger of political manipulation in giving the privilege to any individual.

U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long has performed a public service in bringing to the attention of the country the snooping activities of federal agents and others.

The recent admissions of electronic eavesdropping related to the period before July 1, 1965.

The justice department says that since that date no bugging or wiretapping has been permitted by federal agencies except upon authorization of the attorney general and then only in the interests of national security.

When President Lyndon B. Johnson urged the outlawing of snooping in his state of the union address, the applause greeting it in Congress was deceptive.

Many congressmen believe that there should be no complete prohibition of either bugging or wiretapping and that exceptions should be made either in the interests of the national security or in fighting organized crime or for both.

The recent public airing of a difference of opinion about whether the FBI had conducted wiretapping or bugging at the request of the attorney general shows the need to avoid arguments and establish clear responsibility.

The argument was between J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, and former Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, now a senator and presidential aspirant.

Hoover seemed to win the argument.

Senator Long is correct when he expresses reservations about eavesdropping even in national security cases with prior court approval. "How do you define the national security?" he asks. "Whenever you open the door to any eavesdropping, there is no stopping. It is like putting the fox in the hen house."

True enough but because of scientific progress Americans are going to have to learn how to live with the fox.

It is too dangerous for them to attempt to live without it by tying the government's hands.

Long agrees that if there are exceptions they should be handled on the basis of a prior court order.

That is the only sensible course to take.

FEBRUARY - AMERICAN HISTORY MONTH

February 1967 marks a milestone for the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the patriotic organizations affiliated with its members in a long and arduously fought attempt to have the month of February designated as American History Month. During the closing sessions of Congress a group of Congressmen, concerned with the importance of preserving a fundamental knowledge of the principles on which our country was established and of the people who sacrificed and dared so much to bring it about, sponsored the passage of a bill making February 1967 officially American History Month in all the fifty states. For a number of years Governors of the various states from Alaska to Florida, and including ex-Governor Dalton and Governor Warren Hearnes of Missouri have issued proclamations making these days a tribute to the myriad patriots and heroes who have lived, died, and given their lives and their fortunes for the freedoms which we today must not risk losing. The mayors of over a thousand cities in all parts of the Republic have joined in the chorus, and it has been so in Sikeston.

February was chosen as American History Month largely because it contains the birthdays of three of our presidents - two of the greatest. George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, tower over their counterparts in any history, but it was the devotion of the men from the farms and the shops, from the banks and the mills who rallied to the banner under the leadership of Washington to claim their independence of domination by a foreign power who must also be commemorated during the month.

One of the signers of the Declaration of Independence was a wealthy Virginian named Thomas Nelson, Jr. He joined the fighting forces of the American Revolution and became a Brigadier General. Toward the end of the Revolution, as the battle of Yorktown approached, the British General Cornwallis made his headquarters in the beautiful Nelson home. The seige of Yorktown lasted three weeks. Nelson personally directed the fire on his own stately dwelling. Soon after, Cornwallis surrendered; but the costs of war were not over. Nelson had raised a necessary $2,000,000 almost overnight by putting up his own properties as collateral. They were forfeited when the loans came due, and the government never reimbursed him. With his health and fortune ruined, Thomas Nelson Jr., died a few years later, still dedicated to the cause to which he had given everything, knowing that his sacrifice was helping to build a strong nation. This is the kind of personal sacrifice that those who know what tyranny means were willing to make that we might enjoy the freedom and independence we know today.

One more our columnist Victor Riesel has been weeks ahead on a national, headline-making, front page story now exciting millions of readers.

Red-haired Walter Reuther is on the warpath - exactly as Riesel predicted.

Word for word, that is.

On January 11, Riesel reported in his column that:

"Brother Reuther does not plan to attend (the midwinter Florida session of labor's high command). He will continue to boycott and escalate his war against the older mainliners."

Riesel predicted flatly there would be no confrontation in Bal Harbour between George Meany and Reuther because the auto union chief would do exactly what he has done.

During the evening of February 3, almost four weeks after Riesel's column, the story hit the wires and made front pages all across the land on Feb. 4.

When Riesel is not right atop the new's, he's well ahead of it month after month.

DESPAIR DOESN'T RELIEVE OF DUTY

A mood of drift and despair is at large in the land. Many of the victims of its gloomy infection were once-proud American patriots.

They have contended long and hard for what they are convinced is right principle. They believe in personal Freedom and national independence as the twin cornerstones of the American heritage. Now they are discouraged because their words of wisdom and warning so often go unheeded. Some are silent because they have concluded that all is lost.

Had our first patriots followed this unhappy example, we would have no country to love, no heritage to honor and no history of which to be proud.

Even if the worse were true, even if there were no hope for Freedom's survival, this would not relieve men who know the truth and right from their duty to speak out. In fact, so long as free speech is still permitted, hope remains in spite of all doomcriers.

Any trend of history can be reversed if enough men will it. Any man's words may become the spark lighting the fire of determination to save Freedom in the souls of others. In the darkest hour, each man needs his brightest torch. It is too late not to try.

Let us hear again from the newly silent Americans. Let them not measure their mark on history by size of audiences and numbers of votes. Truth is more powerful than an army with banners. The silence of men who know truth and right is an invitation to their destroyers to proceed.

NEW YORK (AP) - Jumping to conclusions—and how many do you agree with?

The only way to please anyone over 40 more than by sending him a signed valentine is to send him an unsigned one. He'll feel flattered the rest of the year at the idea someone has a secret crush on him.

The most determined philanthropists in a big city are the drably dressed old ladies who regularly feed pigeons seed or bread crumbs. They'll dare a blizzard to perform this loving chore.

You always feel cheated if you pay $15 or $20 for a hotel room, and then find the mangement hasn't got around to putting a Gideon Bible in the dresser drawer.

Never lend money to a guy who, when he visits the zoo, spends most of his time staring at the creatures slithering around the reptile pit.

Nine out of 10 Americans don't know how to eat a pomegranate.

Whoever invented the miniskirt played the worst joke of the century on women—but the ladies haven't gotten around to realizing it.

You're in a rut if it ruins your day to come to work in the morning and discover someone else has beaten you to your favorite coat hanger.

Most professional midgets are baseball fans, but few take any interest at all in basketball.

You always know you're in an intellectual home if they serve you a cheese fondue for dinner. Only an intellectual could eat that dish and convince himself he'd had a meal.

Whenever anyone gives me for Christmas a pen that can write in three colors, I take it as a personal challenge to see if during the succeeding 12 months I can find a gift equally useless to surprise him with the next Christmas.

People who wear trifocal glasses generally feel mentally superior to people who only wear bifocals.

It worries a mother if her baby boy has big ears, but a father takes it as a good omen if the lad has big feet.

The brief case is no longer the status symbol it used to be. When you see a guy carrying one now, it just makes you wonder whether he really is an executive or just a fellow carrying his lunch.

Inflation will reach a critical point in America the day hatcheck girls start expecting four bits instead of a quarter.

The Missouri Highway Patrol gave 410,340 drivers' license examinations in 1966.

In its summary of drivers' license examinations for last year, the Highway Patrol reported that 67 per cent of the examinations were passed and 31 per cent were failed. Two per cent of the tests given by the Patrol were not completed.

The written part of the drivers' license examination was the reason for the most failed tests, 81,934. The road test accounted for 44,954 failed examinations. The remaining 1,807 failures were due to the eye and road sign examinations.

New drivers, those who had never been licensed before, took 310,237 examinations for a Missouri drivers' license in 1966. Out-of-state drivers moving into Missouri accounted for 72, 051 tests, and 26,160 examinations were given to those drivers whose license had expired. The Highway Patrol gave 866 examinations to drivers who were cited by the Director of Revenue to determine their qualifications or competency to safely operate a motor vehicle.

The annual summary also showed that examiners found 45,495 defective vehicles prior to starting the road test.

The Patrol gave 659 special drivers' examinations to school bus drivers last year, and 266 special tests were given to postal employees.

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Patrol Superintendent, stated that most of the drivers who took these examinations spent a good deal of brushing up on their driving skills and knowledge of motor vehicle law. He suggested that all drivers, regardless of their experience or driving record, make a periodic self-examination of their driving proficiency and familiarity with the traffic laws.

WHILE I am in the mood, I should like to confess that I feel sorry for the one parakeet and the four goldfish that are prisoners in my apartment. The lone bird is in a cage and the fish are in a small Woolworth aquarium. In some respects, all are beautiful sights to see.

But --

What is the bird's reaction to captivity? And what do the fish think? Do any of them know what they are missing? Do they consider themselves lucky? Do they appreciate the good home I supply? Or do they hate me?

HOW was I persuaded to switch from aspirin to Anacin? I don't know for sure, but the fact is that for a couple of years I have been reaching for an Anacin when I am wakeful or feeling mean.

Then I read what follows in Changing Times, the Kiplinger magazine:

'$86,400,000 for a headache cure. The sum was spent over a period of eight years, beginning in 1956. It went for presentations of a single ad, a 59-second TV commercial for Anacin. The ad promised fast relief from headache pain and was astoundingly successful. Quoted in Madison Avenue, Rosser Reeves, the ad industry's prime maverick and chairman of its fifth biggest ad agency (Ted Bates & Co.), said the commercial cost $9,400 to produce and "made more money for the client than Gone With the Wind." Reeves thinks it's the largest amount of cash ever spent on a single ad, and thus far no one has risen to challenge him.'

The millions of dollars so startled me when I read them that I had to ask Reeves for confirmation before I dared print $86,400,000. Anacin is a product of a subsidiary of American Home Products.

On the label of the Anacin bottle, this information is printed: 'Active ingredients; aspirin, cafeine.'

CREATING POVERTY

A leaflet published by a union states: "This session of Congress must also increase the amount and broaden the coverage of the FEDERAL MINIMUM WAGE -- the most effective means of combating poverty."

This union is entitled to its views and to press for legislation which it wants. But a great many people who have studied the matter hold grave doubts that increase after increase in the minimum wage, coupled with broadened coverage, is the way to help the poor. In fact, they think it is more likely to have the opposite result.

To begin with, arbitrarily increased wage rates, which are not geared in any way to a worker's value and productivity, cannot help but force commodity prices up and give another boost to inflation. The burden of that must fall on those least able to bear the added burden -- pensioners, recipients of welfare, and the great numbers of people who live on modest fixed incomes from one source or another. It is certainly evident that every time prices rise more poverty is automatically created.

Secondly, these arbitrary wage rates which are not reflected in productivity can severely limit opportunity for employment. The employer is forced to cut marginal employment to the greatest extent he can. This is especially apparent in such service businesses as retailing. And thus the unskilled have less chance to get jobs and gain the experience that will qualify them for higher pay.

Many a plan, well intended for improving the lot of lower-income groups, has boomeranged. That is inevitable when wage rates are pegged by fiat at unreasonable levels.

H.L. Hunt Says

PROPOSED "DEPARTMENT" OF CONSUMERS"

The report of the Consumer Advisory Council to the President, made public at the end of last year, recommends the creation of yet another new cabinet level federal department. This one would be called the Department of Consumers. Its purpose would be to add new paper mountains to the towering range already thrown up by past laws, aimed at regulating producers for the alleged benefit of consumers.

Because of the simple fact that there cannot be a sale without a buyer and a seller, there cannot be consumers without producers. This elementary fact escapes those who see bureaucratic regulation and new red tape jungles as the answer to every problem. Consumers are not a special "interest group" to be treated in isolation. We are all consumers; but everything we consume must first be produced.

If consumers are satisfied with what they are getting, no one else has cause for complaint. If they want more and are not willing to pay more, producers will eventually be found to give better quality at the same prices and thus increase their sales. No Department of Consumers can do anything significant to assist these basic functions of the free market. But such a department would do much to hinder them by placing artificial barriers between producer and consumer.

The real effect of regulation allegedly in the interest of consumers is to tell them what they can and cannot consume, as well as making it more difficult to produce what they want. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

J. EDGAR HOOVER GETS HIS MAN

On February 1, 1967, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that President Johnson had approached former Gov. Grant Sawyer of Nevada who had been defeated after he tangled with J. Edgar Hoover, to become Governor of the Panama Canal zone and that he had accepted. However, there had been a leak through the FBI in Nevada and it was predicted that Sawyer would now probably not get the job after all.

On Feb. 6 the White House announced the appointment of Brig. Gen. Walter P. Leber as Governor of the Canal zone.

WASHINGTON -- Having written a great deal that was critical about the extracurricular activities of Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Globe - Trotter, it's only fair to balance the record.

It seems to us that Rep. Powell was done an injustice in the libel suit brought by Mrs. Esther James of Harlem, in which she got a total judgment, with penalties, of $166,000. Of course some of this was Adam's fault, in that he was cavalier with the courts and refused to appear in reply to court summonses. But on the other hand, when you look at the background of Mrs. James, you can understand why he felt he had suffered a miscarriage of justice.

Mrs. James is now living in Montego Bay, Jamaica, and was not available to us for comment. When Walter Cronkite of CBS tried to interview her, his producer was informed by her attorney that it would cost $2,500 if the interview was given when he was going to Montego Bay, and $5,000 if given at an earlier date. CBS passed up this expensive opportunity. NBC did interview Mrs. James.

MRS. JAMES BACKGROUND

Mrs. James is a West Indian Negro who came to the United States during the depression and gave four different birth dates to the Buffalo police -- Dec. 25, 1903; Dec. 25, 1904; Dec. 25, 1905; and Jan. 4, 1896.

The dates were given during six brushes with the law which Mrs. James experienced while living in Buffalo. These arrests, which resulted in one fine and two suspended sentences, were not permitted by the judge to be introduced as evidence in the libel suit which Adam lost.

Most courts permit all evidence regarding a plaintiff's career be placed before the jury. This is because when a plaintiff sues for libel it's important to see whether he or she has a good reputation and whether it has been really damaged.

However, Mrs. James's police record was ruled out. We have confirmed the record from the Buffalo police.

It shows that Mrs. James was first arrested Aug. 4, 1933, charged with second decree assault, which in New York is a felony. The incident took place in the yard of 188 Walnut street where Mrs. James was engaged in a fight with Cleo Peterson. Harris Baker of 140 Walnut street, a neighbor, tried to stop the fight. Whereupon Mrs. James picked up a hammer and struck Baker on the head. A grand jury failed to indict.

On Sept. 1, 1933, Mrs. James was again charged with disorderly conduct. The police record shows no disposition of the case.

In 1937, on July 29, Mrs. James was charged with assault in the third degree and was given a suspended sentence. Earlier that month, July 21, she was arrested as a material witness but released.

On Sept. 13, 1937, she was again charged with assault in the third degree and again given a suspended sentence.

On Aug. 2, 1938, she was arrested for disorderly conduct and fined $10.

WHO SCALPED ESTHER?

The police record of the bureau of identification of the Buffalo police gives Mrs. James's photograph and fingerprints. Her name is listed as Estella James, with the following aliases: "Esta James, Esther James, Esthre James."

She also uses the name "Estella Rose Collemore," according to the New York City police department.

The Buffalo police record states under "scars and marks": "Bald spot top head caused by hair pulled out."

This does not appear to be a lady whose reputation is worth -- with penalties -- a total of $166,000.

Charles T. McKinney, who defended the case for Rep. Powell, was handicapped by the fact that his client, was as usual busy in Washington and elsewhere. He did not appear in his own defense. Juries are usually charged by the judge that the absence of the defendant cannot be held against him. Attorneys handling the Powell case could not remember whether Judge Thomas Aurielo so charged the jury.

Mr. McKinney at one point moved for a mistrial because a New York newspaper had published the fact that one juror had heard on television that Congressman Powell was going to attend the trial and the juror had announced this to the other jurors. When Powell did not appear, according to the newspaper account, the jurors showed visible signs of disappointment. Judge Aurielo overruled the motion for a mistrial.

Mr. McKinney states that he was rushed into trial by the trial judge without sufficient preparation, and that Judge Aurielo refused a postponement on the grounds that the trial judge had already set the case.

All of the above are matters which the congressional committee investigating Powell should check into. It has the power to subpoena records and require Mrs. James to return to the USA from Montego Bay.

Note -- Any persons having further information regarding Mrs. James's activities will perform a public service by communicating with us in Washington or with Rep. Emanuel Celler, chairman of the Powell investigating committee.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Special Labor Team Set to Swing 50 Million Workers Behind LBJ in 1968.

Washington, D. C. -- In the White House, shortly after lunchtime on Jan. 25, the man - eating labor leader, George Meany, who chews up newsmen like hors do'oeuvres, cheerfully walked out of Lyndon Johnson's inner office and told some friends that Mr. Johnson was the best President labor ever had.

For Mr. Meany, rarely a laughing boy, this was unprecedented gushing enthusiasm.

It was also a public pledge of support for the 1968 Johnson - Humphrey ticket which will receive warm support from labor's high command when it meets officially in Bal Harbour, Fla., later this month.

Like Meany, virtually all labor leaders are cheerful these days, despite the polls which show their candidates slipping. Why?

Because the union chiefs, the toughest realists since the Romans, have been doing some political arithmetic now ignored by the public and the pollsters.

These union leaders reckon that exactly a year from today -- just six months before the national nominating convention -- some 50 million workers and retirees will be shouting and swinging for "Lyndon."

These are the men and women who will be earning from $10 to $14 more a week -- automatic 'y -- as a result of new legislation blandly overlooked by a public hypnotized by the Vietnamese controversy.

And to these 40 million people this is big money, for they are the lowest income workers in the land.

And most of the action comes between this past Feb. 1 and Feb. 1, 1968.

First off, some 32.3 million people now covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act will get all sorts of new benefits as a result of the new minimum wage law, for which such labor leaders as the garment workers' Dave Dubinsky have been fighting alongside Lyndon Johnson since 1937. The full money impact of the law on these tens of millions will be felt by Feb. 1 -- 1968.

But this is merely the beginning. The law sweeps another eight million people into the act's coverage -- by Feb. 1-- 1968.

At least five million low income workers got what for them is a big raise from their employers on Feb. 1, 1967, because of the increase in the national minimum wage.

Some actually got $10 a week more. This will go up next Feb. 1 -- '68.

Millions more got $6 a week more and will get an additional $8 increase on Feb. 1 -- '68.

Others will gain from new regulations providing mandatory time and a half for overtime.

By next Feb. 1 -- 1968 -- the whole 40.3 million will have gained heavy increases without having to fight or strike or bargain. The money will just fall into their pay envelopes.

Amongst these folks -- now in the lowest income bracket -- are some 400,000 farm workers and employees of hospitals, nursing homes, tough labor projects, school maintenance, hotels and motels.

Naturally, in this vast stratum of humanity are the minorities -- Negroes, Puerto Ricans, Mexican - Americans, even Eskimos now being unionized by the Seafarers fishermen's unit.

This story will be told in thousands of labor papers going to the multi - million memberships week after week right through 1968.

But there is more. It's all in a speech delivered by Vice President Hubert Humphrey last week to the West Virginia state labor federation. The total poverty budget now is $25 billion.

Atop this will come higher social security payments for perhaps 10 million retirees. They are a powerful, well-organized voting force. To them, too, the labor people will bring "the message."

It's just a matter of working out the communications techniques. This problem now is in the hands of five of Meany's most trusted, most skillful organizers: the seafarers' Paul Hall, the clerks' Jim Suffridge, the electrical workers' Joe Keenan, the communications workers' Joe Beirne and the steelworkers' upsurging I. W. "Abe" Abel They will begin planning for 1968 during the Florida high command session.

They are not idolators. They are innovators. Their assignments is to begin swinging and to return to the White House the man labor says is the best friend it ever had within the gates.

Wanda Clippard Is Bride Of Larry Frank Busby

OAK RIDGE--Miss Wanda Mae Clippard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Clippard, Oak Ridge route one became the bride of Larry Frank Busby in a ceremony the evening of Jan. 28. Busby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn D. Busby, Advance, route two.

Caney Fork Baptist church at Millersville was the scene for the event at which the Rev. Harley Statler officiated. Baskets of yellow rosebuds and green carnations enhanced the setting lighted by tapers in twin candelabra. Mrs. Peggy Moore of Millersville accompanied the vocalist, Earl Oldham of Jackson.

Clippard gave his daughter in marriage. Her bridal gown of brocaded peau de soie followed empire lines and featured long sleeves outlined at the wrist with seed pearls which also trimmed the neckline. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to rose leaves outlined with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with two yellow-throated white orchids.

Miss Donna Kester, Cape Girardeau, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Stearns, Oak Ridge, sister of the bride, and Mrs. John Clippard, Jackson. Their empire gowns of peau de soie were yellow for the maid of honor and green for the bridesmaids. Matching bows held their nosetip veils and they carried bouquets of yellow rosebuds and green carnations.

Cindy Langston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Langston of Jackson, was flower girl. She wore a gown that matched that of the maid of honor and carried a basket of yellow rosebuds and green carnations. Larry Brack Morton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Morton of Cape Girardeau was ringbearer.

Attending the bridegroom were his brother, Linny Clark Busby of Jackson, who was best man, Richard Stearns of Oak Ridge and John Clippard of Jackson, brother of the bride, groomsmen. Ushers were Albert Baker, Cape Girardeau and Lynn Clippard, Oak Ridge.

Serving at the reception at the church were Miss Linda Conley, Jackson, Miss Peggy Lee, Cape Girardeau, and Mrs. Linny C. Busby, Jackson. Miss Phyllis Ann Busby of Advance was at the guest book.

The bride attended Oak Ridge high school and was employed at St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau prior to her marriage. Busby was graduated from Advance high school and is employed by the Chrysler Corp. in St. Louis. The couple will live in Fenton.

Miss Frances Phillips Weds Charles G. White

AQUILLA -- Miss Frances Kay Phillips and Charles Glen White were married Jan. 21, at 8 p.m. at the General Baptist church.

The Rev. Don Stafford performed the double ring ceremony.

Miss Phillips is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Phillips of Aquilla. White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Montie White of Bloomfield.

The bride was escorted down the aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of peau de soie. The bodice was designed with a scooped neckline and long tapered sleeves were accented with tiny pearl buttons and points over the hands. A detachable train fell from the empire waistline. Her silk illusion veil was caught with a pearl tiara and she carried a corsage of white carnations banked with pink carnations.

The maid of honor was Louana Sutton of Canalou, a classmate of the bride at Southeast Missouri State College. She wore a floor length gown, of red brocade with a close fitting bodice and scooped neckline and long controlled skirt. She carried a fur muff centered with an American beauty rose.

Kenneth White, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. White is from Overland.

Ushers were: Bruce Phillips, brother of the bride and Kenneth Kingree, cousin of the bride.

Miss Kathy Fraley of Matthews, a classmate of Miss Phillips, was pianist. She provided pre-nuptial music, favorite selections of the bride and groom. She also sang, "More," by Norman Newells accompanied by Miss Sharon White of Aquilla.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at White's Cafe in Bloomfield. The bride's table was overlaid with a red satin cloth centered with a white netted heart shape centerpiece of hanging rose buds.

The tiered wedding cake was trimmed with American beauty roses and white lily of the valley, topped with traditional miniature bride and groom standing under a netted arch.

Wedding bells hung throughout the dining room.

The couple left for Jonesboro, Ark., where White is a senior at Arkansas State University.

Loveland Postmark, Verse for Valentines

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) - Loveland post office employes annually stamp the envelopes of 90,000 to 100,000 valentines with the Loveland postmark and a rhyme and send them along to sweethearts in all 50 states plus a number of foreign countries.

The verse is changed each year. This year's version is:

"A note of true affection
Is signed and sealed within,
And sent from mile-high Loveland
Where romantic trails begin."

Ron Jaynes SPORTS CORNER

As class S and M high school basketball squads make their home stretch turn tonight, looking for that added lift and drive before the regional tournaments start next week. A bevy of games are on tab as a few teams end their conference schedules as well as their regular season.

Some 38 squads will hit the hardwood tonight in hopes of adding to their record and one will hit the floor tonight hoping for their season's first.

As our little Devil prepares for his predictions. . . .We thought you might like to know that he has hit on 347 of 420 for a .824 mark. That's pretty good considering the person doing the guessing.... Well. . . .everyone can't be good. . . .

We see time is short. . . .so here are tonight's predictions:

Dexter at Bell City --- We sure can't figure out those Cubs. . . .Falling to Scott Central so bad and then turning around and beating Delta the way the Braves did them . . . .We think the Cubs are capable of beating the Bearcats. . . .But. . . .you never can tell about the Cubs. We'll go along with the visitors. Dexter 68, Bell City 64.

Richland at Kelly --- The Rebels are preparing for the Bloomfield regional and will use the Hawks tonight. . . . only as a practice team. Richland 84, Kelly 63.

Campbell at Parma --- The Pirates were behind at Risco last week. . . .and will find themselves behind during the entire game tonight. . . .That's if James Gibson is still out of uniform. . . .If he's in. . . . The Parma quintet will lead . . . .maybe at the end of the first quarter. . . .either way you go they will surely lose. Campbell 61, Parma 53.

Puxico at Malden --- Coach Garner will have a few surprises for the teams in the Bloomfield regional and will show the Indians one tonight. Malden 59, Puxico 53.

Holcomb at Risco --- The Hornets are no match for the Tigers. . . .Risco will go another night without a win.... Maybe they will take Friday night's game. . . .we sure hope so. Holcomb 96, Risco 57.

Lilbourn at Bloomfield --- Both squads play that slow approach to the goal game. ... The Wildcats have speeded it up a little lately and have looked good doing it. . . .We think they are going to be hard to beat in the next three weeks. Bloomfield 58, Lilbourn 52.

Bernie at Broseley --- With Page back in the lineup for the Tigers and Bernie's Craft and Botsch out . . . .that spells only one thing. . . .A Broseley win. Broseley 79, Bernie 75.

Delta at Scott Central --- If the Bobcats play as they did against Bell City last week. ... All they can hope for is a snow storm to cancel out the game as the Braves are down right tough on their home court. Maybe if they hold the ball they can win. . . .Scott Central 92, Delta 71.

Hayti North at Gideon --- Those Bulldogs might pull the upset. . . .If the Indians are not prepared. . . .Coach Shock's squad will win. . . .What it looks like from here though is. . . . Hayti 81, Giden 64.

Charleston at Illmo - Scott City --- No. 13 for the Blue Jays. . . .Maybe they ought to lose this game and then not take an unlucky number with them to Cape Girardeau Friday night. . . .Briggs and Co. are loaded for bear and will blow the Rams plum off the floor.... Charleston 73, Illmo-Scott City 54.

Portageville at Senath-H'ville --- This should prove to be a real good game. . . . Both teams have had their troubles this season. . . .We see a win for the home town crowd though. . . .Sorry about that Coach Kinnamen. . . . . Spears is on your side. . . . Senath-H'ville 66, Portageville 57.

Doniphan at Poplar Bluff --- The Mules defeated the Dons early in the season. . . .Can they do it again?. . . .Yes. . . . Poplar Bluff 78, Doniphan 71.

Oran at Woodland -- The Eagles will return to the win column tonight. . . .Johnson and Johnson will provide the Oran quintet with the victory. Oran 93, Woodland 78.

Chaffee at Matthews --- Would you believe an upset???? How about a little close game?? Well. . . .Then how about. . .. Matthews 101, Chaffee 69.

South Pemiscot at Clarkton --- This should be a real. . . ."Head Knocker". . . . We think the visitors will take this game. . . .South Pemiscot 61, Clarkton 55.

What we're waiting for. . .. is that perfect night for our little friend. . . .Maybe tonight will be his. . .We hope. . .

Matthews Takes Grip On No. 1 Spot In Standard Poll

Matthews' Pirates took a firm grip on the No. 1 position in this week's Southeast Missouri high school basketball poll as Notre Dame began a late season climb toward the top.

Notre Dame (20-2), in third place last week, moved to second, but the gap between the two teams remained as it was last week as the Pirates polled all 14-first place votes.

Bloomfield (20-6) replaced Howardville (18-6) in fourth place after Oran (23-4) fell from second to third. Howardville dropped to sixth place.

Charleston (17-5), which won one game last week, jumped three notches to fifth. The BlueJays edged Oran, second last week, 59-57 on the Eagles home court.

Poplar Bluff (18-4) of the SEMO conference was seventh after being in the number six position a week ago.

Hayti North, seventh last week, fell to eighth, Kennett failed to make the poll last week in an oversight of tabulation of votes, but climbed to ninth, moving Dexter to tenth.

With the big mixup in the top ten, the individual class ratings also took a tumble.

Poplar Bluff, after leading the class L quintets all season, fell to second and made room for the surging Charleston Blue Jays. Kennett remained third, Sikeston fell to fifth as Cape Girardeau Central surged to fourth after not being mentioned last week. Jackson failed to appear.

In the class M ratings, the top five teams had Oran and Notre Dame exchanging places. Hayti North clung to fifth.

The only change in the class S ratings was in the fourth and fifth positions as Advance, fifth last week, made its way to fourth and moved Leopold from fourth to fifth.

The shuffle in this week's ranking was brought about by Charleston's 59-57 win over Oran, Bloomfield's 54-44 win over Houston, Poplar Bluff's 64-57 loss to Advance and Notre Dame's rousing victory over St. Pius of Festus.

This week's big game will pit second ranked Notre Dame against Charleston, which is in fifth place in the poll. The game will be played at Cape Girardeau Friday night.

The final Daily Standard basketball poll will run two weeks from today. All of the area coaches will be voting on the final poll.

The top 10, with 10 points for first place, nine for second, etc., with total points at the right.

CASSIUS OR MUHAMMAD, HE'S THE CHAMP

NEW YORK -- Some people hate him, others love him. He gets into lots of trouble when he speaks and yet there are many people who find him quite charming when he's in a relaxed mood. But for all his talk, which gets him both in and out of trouble, he's the heavyweight champion of the world and deserves it. And now he's the undisputed champ after his lopsided victory over Ernie Terrell.

For all anyone knows, Clay's greatest talent may be that he is a master showman underneath everything. His peoms and the sense of humor he has displayed on television shows us a man very different from Clay the boxer preparing for a fight. You can't criticize him for not fighting enough contenders, and saying that all of his opponents were not first-rate fighters is just idle nonsense. True, some of the fighters were not that good, but neither were some of the men Joe Louis and Sugar Ray Robinson fought in their times.

But when it comes to the heavyweight championship match, good fighters or not, there's an aura about such a bout which causes the public to put it in a class by itself. Can you imagine all the hoopla, publicity and promotion for a bantamweight fight? The heavyweight championship match is the pinnacle of boxing and everyone is up for it! As for those people who felt that Clay was giving Terrell a savage beating for cruelty's sake, again that's a lot of hogwash. The same people who complain that Clay was cruel in the ring would be the first to urge a Clay opponent to "cut him up," "murder him," etc. Boxing was never a parlor game.

As for Terrell, he, like all the others Clay has fought, lost the fight for reasons other than ability. No one seems to lose to Clay because Clay is the better fighter; it's always something else that makes a Clay opponent lose the fight. With Ernie Terrell, it was rubbing his eye on the ropes of the ring. With others, it was a lucky punch, a bad back, an old chest injury, everything but Clay's fists.

Like him or not, wise guy or not, complete fool or not, Cassius Clay punched, danced and belted his way to the ownership of his throne. Now, of course, the belittlers will put down Clay because he didn't knock out Terrell. Well, Joe Louis in his prime couldn't put away Arturo Godoy, who make his niche as a fighter who fought sideways.

Again, the issue is to try to judge Clay as a boxer and not by what he says or does out of the ring. As a champ, he knows how to slip punches. He beat Terrell with Terrell's own best weapons, and I do not feel the fight was a disappointment. The champ is a good, fighting champ. Credit should be given where it's due.

Bruins Remain No. 1

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Louisville, Princeton, Western Kentucky and Kansas, four among the ranking teams which eluded an active Mr. Upset last week, have gained ground in the latest Associated Press major-college basketball poll.

Unbeaten UCLA, the only other team in the Top Ten to emerge without a loss last weekend, remained the poll's unchallenged leader. The Bruins, 19-0, were the unanimous choices for first place for the fifth straight week.

Vanderbilt, a top contender in the Southeastern Conference and Syracuse, 17-2, including 10 straight victories in its most recent games, are the newest members of the first 10. They replaced Providence and Boston College, two among the five ranking teams which were beaten in weekend games.

The Bruins, victors over Oregon State 76-44 and Oregon 100-66, collected all 32 votes for the No. 1 position in the latest balloting by sports writers and broadcasters based on games through last Saturday.

Louisville advanced to the runner-up position after defeating Drake 57-54 and Wichita 90-68. The Cardinals collected 27 points in the voting, based, as usual, on 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third etc.

Princeton, which had to claw like Tigers to beat Yale 81-80 and Brown 57-54, moved up one notch to third. North Carolina, an 82-80 loser to Georgia Tech, tumbled two places to fourth. The Tar Heels beat Virginia and Wake Forest earlier in the week.

Western Kentucky and Kansas each climbed one position, the Hilltoppers to fifth and Kansas to sixth. Western Kentucky beat Murray 88-79 in overtime and East Tennessee, 65-56. Kansas whipped Nebraska 84-58 and Kansas State 60-55.

Houston, an 87-78 loser to Notre Dame, slipped from fifth to seventh. Texas Western, despite its 69-56 setback by Notre Dame held the No. 8 spot.

Vanderbilt, 17-3 including a 10-2 mark in the SEC which places it a half game behind Tennessee, took over ninth place followed by Syracuse.

Providence, ninth a week ago, lost to Niagara 77-76 and Boston College, 10th last week, was upset by Fordham, 85-81.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-etc. basis:

1. UCLA (32)	320
2. Louisville	275
3. Princeton	222
4. North Carolina	203
5. Western Kentucky	180
6. Kansas	167
7. Houston	96
8. Texas Western	55
9. Vanderbilt	51
10. Syracuse	38

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Boston College, Brigham Young, Colorado State, Cornell, Dayton, Duke, Florida, Indiana, New Mexico, Providence.

Cards Sign Four

ST. LOUIS - Stan Musial locked four more signed Cardinal contracts in his safe tonight (February 13), bringing the number of Red Bird players satisfied with 1967 salary terms to an even two dozen.

Catcher Pat Corrales and Infielder Jimmy Williams dropped into the Cardinals' Busch Stadium offices to give the new General Manager their signed papers before they headed for St. Petersburg, Florida, and a special early instructional camp that is to begin Friday. In addition, Catcher Dave Ricketts and Infielder John Sipin sent theirs in by mail from their homes.

Corrales, a 26-year-old right-handed hitter from Fresno, California, is completely recovered from winter surgery to correct a torn cartilage in his right knee. He suffered the injury on the next-to-last day of the season when he twisted violently going after a wild pitch. Corrales, who came to the Cardinals the previous winter in a deal with the Phillies, appeared in only 28 games last season, and had a .181 batting average.

Williams drafted slightly over a year ago by the Cardinals, was kept on the Red Bird roster last season until he entered military service in August. The 23-year-old Californian (Arroyo Grande) appeared in only 13 games, and went to bat only 11 times. His average was .273.

The switch-hitting Ricketts, 31, had another great minor league season. The former Duquesne University basketball star who lives in Rochester, N. Y., batted .327 at Tulsa.

Sipin, a 20-year-old right-handed hitter from Watsonville, Calif., had a successful freshman year in organized baseball. A shortstop and second baseman, he hit .248 at St. Petersburg in 31 games and .233 at Cedar Rapids in 92 games.

Previously signed Cardinals are Pitchers Bob Gibson, Joe DiFabio, Jerry Pruett, Ron Willis, Steve Carlton, Hal Woodeshick, Mike Torrez, Harry Parker and Danny Jaster; Infielders Orlando Cepeda, Ed Spiezio, George Kernek, and Jose Arcia; Outfielders Tito Francona, Curt Flood, and Floyd Wicker and Catcher John Romano.

Lake Of Ozarks To Have Striped Bass

JEFFERSON CITY -- Fishermen at Lake of the Ozarks may soon be angling for a fish normally taken only along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. The Conservation Department will obtain about one and a half million striped bass eggs for hatching and stocking in the lake.

Stripers, or "rockfish", as they are sometimes called, have been introduced into a few large reservoirs, primarily in the southeastern states. It appears they would survive and contribute substantially to the fishery at Lake of the Ozarks as well. This will be considered an experimental introduction and the effects on the fishery will be carefully evaluated by fishery biologists.

Striped bass are native to bays, estuaries and coastal streams along the Atlantic Ocean. They were introduced into Pacific coastal streams many years ago and more recently in several large reservoirs. They are a member of the sea bass family, as are our native white bass which they resemble very closely. Unlike white bass, they can live for more than 40 years, and grow to more than 100 pounds. Most of those taken by anglers are from one to ten pounds. In his native habitat, a five-year-old usually weighs about five pounds, an eight - year - old about fifteen pounds, and a ten-year-old about twenty - five pounds. We hope they will do this well in Lake of the Ozarks.

Newly - hatched stripers feed primarily on tiny aquatic animals (plankton), as do most other fishes, with their food changing to insects and smaller fish as they grow. Adults seem to prefer members of the herring family, so are expected to feed on the abundant supply of gizzard shad which grow too large for black bass and most other predatory fish now present in the lake.

Spawning requirements of striped bass are quite specific, and there is considerable doubt that spawning will take place here, particularly after Kaysinger Bluff Dam is completed. In their native coastal stream, adult stripers swim 75 miles or more upstream to spawn when water temperatures reach about 65 degrees. The eggs drift downstream, sinking gradually until they hatch in about 72 hours. A relatively long and deep section of stream is required for this, as the eggs will not hatch if they touch bottom. The Osage River above Lake of the Ozarks might be suitable for this; however, Kaysinger Bluff Reservoir will flood most of this section of the river in Missouri. If they are unable to spawn successfully, future stocking by the department will be necessary. A source of supply is now available.

The department will buy the eggs and hatch them at one of its hatcheries. They will be reared through one summer in Union Electric Company's hatchery at Grand Glaize, after which the department will transport them and distribute them widely throughout the lake.

Stripers tend to travel in schools, much like white bass. During the summer months, they feed primarily at the surface, moving into deeper waters as the water temperatures cool in fall and winter. A wide variety of fishing methods is used, including spin - casting, trolling and bait fishing.

Stripers are considered excellent food fish, and their large size and fighting ability will whet the appetites of Missouri anglers.

THE ARMY NURSE CORPS

The Army Nurse Corps, soon to celebrate its 66th anniversary, is an all officer corps made up entirely of registered professional nurses.

Established in 1901, the Army Nurse Corps has served valiantly in two world wars, the Korean War and in Vietnam.

Today, there are approximately 4,350 nurses serving on active duty of which about 950 are men. Since 1955, qualified male nurses have been appointed as officers in the Army Nurse Corps. In addition there are presently 60 warrant officers nurses serving on active duty.

Applicants for a commission in the Army Nurse Corps must meet certain qualifications. The applicant must be a citizen of the U.S. or have been admitted into the country as a permanent resident. He or she must be between 20 and 35 years of age. Previous service can be credited as a waiver to the age requirement, provided the applicant can complete 20 years active service prior to age 55. The commissioned applicant must be a graduate of a school of nursing which offers either a diploma or a baccalaureate degree in nursing, accredited by the National League for Nursing and/or acceptable to the Department of the Army. The applicant must be currently registered to practice nursing in one of the states, the District of Columbia, or Puerto Rico. He or she must be well qualified to meet the high personal, professional, physical, and moral standards. Applicant may be either single or married.

Army nurses are stationed around the globe, serving in such places as Germany, Italy, Turkey, Vietnam, Alaska, and Hawaii. Opportunities for travel and professional advancement are found throughout the Army Nurse's career.

Members of the Army Nurse Corps are encouraged to pursue advanced academic and professional programs leading to graduate degrees in medically related fields.

Birds Of A Feather

Debby is turning the seed pods of the unicorn plant into curious birds, using only paint, sequins, and grass flowers.

Bet you don't know what Debby is using to make these curious birds! The seed pods of the unicorn plant. Plus the flower heads of grasses, paint and sequins. That's all. You can make these birds too — as many as you want — if you will first copy Debby and grow unicorn plants in your garden.

They're easy to grow, but seeds should be started indoors in spring, about 6 weeks before the date of the last killing frost in your area.

The plants bear pretty, pale yellow flowers with purplish spots. When they fade the seed pods form. You might give a few to Mother while they're still green, for they make delicious pickles. But, when pods brown and dry, you use them, for birds.

The long horn of the pod, shown just under the tail feathers of the left-hand bird in the picture, splits as the pod dries and forms the two legs of the bird. The end by which the pod was attached to the plant forms the beak.

All you need do is touch up the beak with any light or brightly colored paint, so it shows more distinctly; stroke a little paint along the sides of the pod to simulate feathers. Then paste a bright sequin above the beak for an eye and stick some tips of grass flower heads into the open end of the pod, above the "legs" to form tail feathers. Presto, a bird!

Play with the birds, use them for party favors, as place card holders or what you will. They're fun to make, fun to show your friends.

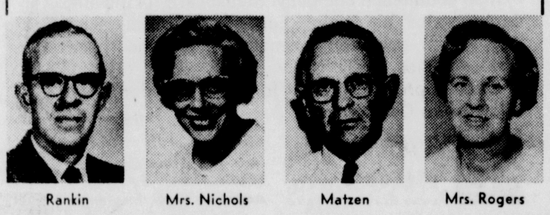
4-H Alumni Honored



Rankin — Mrs. Nichols — Matzen — Mrs. Rogers

Four Missouri 4-H alumni have carried the 4-H motto, "To Make the Best Better," throughout their careers and earned for themselves the 4-H Alumni Recognition plaque, donated by Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation.

One of the winners, Paul Matzen of Greenfield, was rated third-best poultryman in the state for his high-quality flock of 1,000 laying Leghorn hens.

Matzen, a farmer and hatcheryman, was only a 4-H member for one year in his youth, but was so impressed with the opportunities offered by the program that he has served as a 4-H leader for the last 22 years.

Each year for the last 10 years Matzen has donated a cash award for the outstanding 4-H showman in Cerro Gordo County, Iowa. He has served on his Methodist church board, on the Dade County, Mo., extension council, on the board of the Farm Bureau and as a judge at the Springfield District 4-H Fair.

Mrs. Virginia Nichols of Columbia won second prize in the state for her clothing project when she was a 4-H member. Since then she has shared the skills and opportunities she gained by serving as a leader of beef, clothing and gardening projects in the Boonville Eagles 4-H Club, which she helped to found.

Mrs. Nichols has also taught Sunday school, served as a Brownie troop leader and been treasurer of the National Secretaries Association.

Robert Rankin's award honored his contributions to 4-H, in which he was a long-time member, and to Tarkio, the community in which he was reared and has spent his career.

Rankin is a member of the Tarkio Chamber of Commerce, in which he has held several offices, and is chairman of the Tarkio Community Betterment Program. He is president of the Tarkio Rotary Club.

He has served for two years as president of the Missouri Livestock Feeders Association, a board member of the Missouri Hampshire Swine Association and as a Ruling Elder of the United Presbyterian Church.

He has served the Tarkio 4-H Club both as a community and a project leader. He was initiator of the swine gilt chain in the county for 4-H and Future Farmers of America members.

When he was a Boy Scout he attained the rank of Life Scout. He has since served as a scout master, district chairman, council vice chairman and a member of the executive board of the Pony Express Council. He is an honorary member of the Future Farmers of America.

Mrs. Earl Rogers, a Richards housewife, has served for two years as a community 4-H leader, and for 11 years as a project leader.

Mrs. Rogers serves her community as a Sunday school and Bible school teacher. She has been president of her Parent-Teacher Association, Extension Council and Home Extension Club.

The award winners were selected by the Cooperative Extension Service which directs 4-H work.

Canadians-100 Years Old Celebrate Centennial

Canada is about to be 100 years old, and 20 million Canadians are going to have a jumbo birthday celebration. Across the 5,000 miles of the country, people are planning events to mark this anniversary which signals Canada's first century of Confederation. The festivities began at Midnight, January 1, 1967, with parades and dancing in the streets, and continue throughout the year with a broad range of activities, from the everyday to the extraordinary.

"While celebrating, Canadians will be glancing backward", says John Fisher, the Commissioner of the Centennial, "and they will be looking forward to even greater achievement in their second century."

Over 2,000 communities are working feverishly to prepare for the Centennial. On the local level, there will be dogsled races, the dedication of new libraries and the refurbishing of town squares and parks.

Of national importance is the great Confederation Train which will travel through 700 cities and towns. The exhibits in it will colorfully chronicle Canada's stirring history. Tractor trailor caravans will cover another 670 communities.

The largest military tattoo ever produced in North America has been created especially for the Centennial. In it, 1700 authentically costumed marchers and musicians will recreate Canada's stirring military history from 1665-1967.

A highlight of the Centennial is Canada's World Exposition, Expo '67, in which 70 nations, including the U. S., are participating in Montreal.

Other Centennial events involve the performing arts. New plays, ballets and symphonies will be performed. There will be guest artists touring from abroad, and a film festival of great comedies.

In the area of sports, the Pan-American games will take place in the summer; in the winter, heretofore unscaled mountains will be climbed. There is a special athletics program for young people; and there will even be a balloon race.

All major faith groups will be involved in interfaith observances. The women of the country are involved in beautification projects, and business and industry are also lending a hand by sponsoring contests and symposiums.

This will be a year for Canadians to remember and for visitors to enjoy. At least 30 million people are expected to come to Canada for the exciting festivities.

America

The Statue of Liberty, America's symbol of freedom, stands as a beacon for those seeking escape from tyranny and oppression. Whoever seeks solace from her motto—"give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free"—will not seek in vain, for America continues to offer liberty and equality to all men.

People of many races and creeds from the far corners of the earth have suffered to reach the warm glow of freedom, bringing with them the culture, traditions, and customs of many countries to enrich America's heritage. Today, because of them, we stand unique among nations.

The settlers in the New World enjoyed new found freedoms which demanded courage, developed self-reliance, and ignited the fires of independence. The American revolution, fought to insure "no taxation without representation," struck an historic blow for the rights of man.

Most Americans can claim an interest in our heritage and its future because they have invested their energy and talent in our national development. Their efforts in peace and war have ensured the perpetuation of the Republic and an endowment for the future.

Independence, life blood of the American body politic people inseparable. An independent America, forged by courses through the land, one nation indivisible, one our forefathers in the crucible of liberty, and tested in the fires of civil war, now stands prominent among the nations of the world.

Courage to uphold democratic ideals has found America ever ready to defend herself and her allies against aggression. U. S. involvement in two major world wars, in Korea, and in Vietnam attest to her prompt, willing, and full support of the cause of liberty.

America, custodian of the past, guardian of the present and guarantor of the future, merits unswerving loyalty and fervent devotion—let us resolve to perform our Duty in Honor to our Country. (ANF)

Two Artists to Exhibit in Hayti Bank Show

HAYTI - Artist M. Charles Rhinehart and sculptor Harvey Mueller will be featured at an art show at the Bank of Hayti Feb. 19 with a reception from 1-4 p.m. The reception will be served by the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

Rhinehart is teaching art classes in Cape Girardeau. A self-taught artist, he lives and works in Ste. Genevieve, where he has a gallery and studio.

Until 1962, Rhinehart made his living from an outdoor advertising operation and church decorating. Then in 1962 he and his wife and 10 children decided to give up the business and derive their livelihood from his painting.

Now his paintings - nearly all oils - are found in collections in almost every state in the Union, including Alaska.

In 1964 he won the Popular Prize award in the mid-south show at Brooks Memorial Gallery, Memphis, and he has had one-man shows in Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis, and Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio. Twice he has been invited to show at the Illinois State Museum, and his works have been shown in the St. Louis Art Museum and the Springfield Museum.

Mueller, who has completed work on his masters degree and sixth year specialist certificate at Southern Illinois University, is an art faculty member of the Belleville, Ill., Township high school and junior college.

He is best known for his weed pots. Flower pots are a common enough sight, but he introduces the Harvey Mueller weed pot. Some of them weigh almost a hundred pounds.

Mueller's honors include awards for sculpture and crafts in the Kirkwood, Crestwood, and South-County Art Fairs in St. Louis county; acceptance in the past three Mid-South Exhibits at Memphis, first prize for a crafts exhibit at the 1964 KETC art auction; acceptance in the 23rd National Ceramics Show at Syracuse, N. Y.,; a merit award in the Mid-States Exhibition at the Evansville (Inds.) museum of arts and science.

Sculpting is not the only talent of this native Missourian. He plays trumpet and has a 12-man band which performs in the SEMO area.

This will be the fourth two-man show for Rhinehart and Mueller. The others were at the Art Mart in Clayton, Richard Long Gallery in Kirkwood and Charleston art gallery.

"SHARED TIME" APPROVED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Jefferson City, Mo. -- The controversial "shared time" bill was passed last week by the House Education Committee by a vote of 15-11.

The bill, a part of the Governor's legislative program, would allow handicapped and educationally deprived pupils in private and parochial schools to attend special classes at public schools.

The vote on the bill was taken behind closed doors.

The bill was passed with one amendment which would stipulate that nothing on the law would lessen the authority and control of school boards over transportation, curriculum and scheduling.

Opponents argued at the hearing last week that such legislation would provide the openings for public subsidy of non-public schools. Proponents argued that all taxpayers should be able to benefit from public schools, regardless of whether it is on a part-time or full-time bases. Missouri law now prohibits a pupil from attending more than one school during the day.

House Education Committee Chairman James I. Spainhower (D-Marshall) said many House members have received mail opposing the bill which he feels is the result of careful study and based on the convictions of their constituents.

He added, however, that some of the mail opposing the bill is due to a great misunderstanding of its provisions in relation to a possible conflict between church and state.

"When people understand the measure, most will recognize the need for this legislation and lend their support," he said. Spainhower is a minister of the Disciples of Christ church and the sponsor of the bill in the House of Representatives.

He feels that a majority of the House will look with favor on the measure, but added that it is too early to make any definite predictions largely because of the controversial nature of the proposal.

SENATOR PROPOSES CIRCUIT ATTORNEY PLAN

The office of prosecuting attorney would be abolished in all 114 Missouri counties and replaced by 30 circuit attornies elected to four-year terms of office under a bill introduced in the Missouri Senate and supported by Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton.

Proposed by Sen. Earl Blackwell (D-Hillsboro), the measure would provide for a circuit attorney in outstate Missouri to maintain an office in each county within his circuit and appoint at least one assistant for each county in the circuit.

The prosecutor's title would be changed to circuit commissioner.

The Eagleton bill would not be effective until 1970, so circuit attorney would not run in presidential election years.

In his farewell address as head of the Missouri Assn. for Prosecuting Attorneys, the lieutenant governor committed himself to work for full-time circuit attornies throughout Missouri.

This bill would give the circuit attorney the same jurisdiction as the present circuit judge and would be a full-time post, prohibiting the part-time practice of law. Under the bill, circuit attorneys would be paid from the state general revenue fund a salary equal to that of the circuit judges in their district.

SENATE COMMITTEE APPROVES TOLL ROADS

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes's toll road proposal was unanimously approved last week by the Senate Roads Committee and was sent to the Senate floor for debate.

Under the governor's bill, Missouri would set up a toll road authority with the same membership as the State Highway Commission but with the addition of the Governor.

The measure permits the highway commission to lease roads from the toll road authority for an amount not less than the obligations against the toll road. This will permit the use of highway funds from sources such as the gas tax to be used to finance toll roads that are not entirely self-supporting.

The bill was amended to require the state authority to pay for the relocation of utilities and the construction of grade separations, rather than assess those costs against utilities and railroads.

HOUSE RECEIVES NEW REDISTRICTING BILL

A new congressional redistricting bill was introduced last week in the Missouri House by Rep. J. Anthony Dill (R-Affton). Under his plan, districts would vary from the population norm of 431,981 by only slighly more than one per cent for the largest district, the 1st in St. Louis, to slightly under one per cent for the smallest, the 9th of northeastern Missouri.

The bill is the closest to be introduced in compliance with the Supreme Court's one man-one vote rule.

Another bill by Sen. Omar H. Avery (D-Troy), with a population variance of about six per cent, is scheduled for its first hearing this week.

Welfare Pay To $162,460

A total of 2,121 cases received $162,459.58 in welfare payments in Scott county during January, Mrs. Cathleen Gipson, county welfare director, reports.

The largest caseload and share of payments went to those on old age assistance, with 1,274 cases receiving $87,252 or $68.49 per case.

Thirty - four cases received old age assistance nursing care and vendor payments totaling $3,452.58, or $101.55 per case.

Aid to dependent children had 426 cases with 1,334 children. Payments totaled $44,416 or $104.26 per case and $22.29 per child.

General relief payments with 149 cases and 167 persons totaled $10,081 or $67.66 per case and $30.36 per person.

Two hundred cases on permanent and total disability received $14,218, or $71.09 per case.

Aid to the blind payments totaling $3,040 were made to 38 cases. The average payment was $80.

Sixty children received child welfare services. Of this total four were child welfare services, 18 protective services, 26 foster home care and 12 services to adoptive and unmarried mothers.

PORTAGEVILLE - It is difficult to name an activity involving business or pleasure that is not affected in some way by weather. Bootheel residents consult radio, television and newspaper daily for weather forecasts which help them plan their work, recreation or travel.

Southeast Missourians are particularly fortunate in having a weather bureau office located in the Bootheel devoted to weather problems of this specific area. This series of articles will explain the services available and how you can use them to obtain answers to your particular weather problem.

Let's first look at the variety of users who are continually concerned with the effect of the weather and climate of southeast Missouri. In later articles we will show the types of weather sensitive operations facing each user.

1. The agricultural operations that make up the major industry of the Bootheel are particularly vulnerable to changes in weather throughout the growing season.

2. Weather determines load imposed upon utility companies to supply power or fuel to the community.

3. Highway departments, state, county and city, adjust their workload to fit anticipated weather.

4. The construction industry uses weather forecasts to schedule most efficient use of workcrews.

5. Retail stores, clothing, appliance and grocery, plan their buying and sales emphasis to meet weather conditions.

6. The housewife, homemaker and family units plan activity to coincide with favorable weather trends whether it be housework, recreation, or pleasure trips.

7. Sportsmen are looking for particular weather conditions for their variety of outdoor pursuits.

8. Motorists, both local, and long distance travellers, profit by up-to-date weather information.

9. Aviators, amateur and commercial are constantly in need of weather information for local and cross country flights.

10. Commercial and recreational activity along the rivers are affected by weather in the local areas as well as conditions occurring hundreds of miles upstream.

"I'm a stock broker. Here's one thing I find that smart investors have in common."

"They start out with a specific goal in mind, usually one of these three: growth, income or safety."

Isn't it just a matter of making money?

"That's the idea, of course—to improve yourself financially. But the smart people in the market try to invest to help meet certain objectives they've set for themselves and their families, after first providing for living expenses and the usual emergencies."

But everybody must want growth?

"Of course. The country is growing and they want to grow with it. When we talk about growth as a goal, we mean growth in the value of the stock over a period of time. The investor is willing to leave his money in a stock, to ride over the normal ups and downs of the market, with the idea that his money will grow to help him in later years."

How can an investor pick a growth stock?

"If you take the stocks on the New York Stock Exchange as a whole, the record shows that their value has grown with the country over a period of years. Listed stocks are generally the biggest companies, with proven records. But there's no guarantee, of course, that any one stock will grow in any given period. The thing to do is ask your broker for facts and advice, then use your good common sense in estimating a company's prospects."

What if I needed more income to help me over some hurdles now?

"Then your primary goal would be to get a good dividend return, though you would still hope that the value of your stock would grow. Preferred stocks or bonds might be other ways to fill your need for a second income."

Where does safety fit in as a goal?

"There's some risk in any investment, whether securities or anything else. Your circumstances and your temperament may suggest a conservative approach. Then you'd look into the relative safety of principal with good yield that high-grade preferred stocks or bonds might offer."

If a goal is all that important, would you say that's the first thing an investor and broker should talk about?

"The very first. And don't feel the slightest bit shy about asking his opinion, if you're not completely sure what your goal should be. He's there to help, and if you and he have a good idea of what you want your investment to do—well, how could you make a better start?"

Senator Say U.S. Imposes Spending Programs on States

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- State Sen. Albert M. Spradling Jr. charged Wednesday that the federal government is imposing mandatory spending programs on the states at the same time that it is trying to cut into the states' taxing power.

The Democratic senator, in an appearance before the Cape Girardeau Lions Club, outlined the issues before the General Assembly this season, leaning heavily on the federal state relationship.

The Cape Girardeau senator told the Lions also that there has been a resurgence by the states and that a more conservative trend in politics is in the making.

"After the last election, a few of our congressmen have decided we can't give everything away," he commented.

Furthermore, Sen. Spradling said, the voters in the 21-27 age group, which he said by 1970 will make up more than half the total voting population, are a conservative group.

The big issue in Jefferson City this year, Sen. Spradling declared, is how successful the state will be in slowing down the federal government in its encroachment on the states' governing authority.

"On one hand, the federal government is telling us to spend our money on Medicaid, spend our money on highway beautification, but on the other hand, it is saying, 'we are going to have to take some more of the money'," Sen. Spradling stated.

Medicaid, the senator told his audience, is medical care for the near-needy, a term which the federal government has left to the states' definition.

"Medicaid takes you from birth to 65; then Medicare takes over," veteran legislator remarked.

In New York, Sen. Spradling reported, "near-needy" is defined as having a net income of less than $6,000 per year.

Failure to adopt a Medicaid program by a certain time would result, the federal government has threatened, in loss by Missouri of some of its welfare funds, the Lions were told Wednesday.

The highway beautification bill - which Sen. Spradling called "the Lady Bird Bill" - would cost the states $2,000,000,000 for billboard removal, money which the Congress has not appropriated, he said.

The cost of removing billboards, Sen. Spradling went on, would build 120 miles of interstate road, where fatality rates are about half those of primary highways.

Failure to enact an acceptable highway beautification bill will result in loss by the state of 10 per cent of federal highway funds.

Sen. Spradling said neither the billboard law nor Medicaid as written by Missouri last year met the approval of federal authorities.

During that special session, he went on, half the legislation enacted by the Legislature was directed by the federal government under threat of loss of funds.

Sen. Spradling mentioned the federal Willis Bill, which would take away states' authority to tax businesses with interstate operations, a move which the Cape Girardeau Democrat said would cost Missouri $50,000,000 per year.

The multi-state tax compact he has proposed to the General Assembly would be an answer to the Willis Bill.

Sen. Spradling's remarks to the Lions indicated the trend may be reversing.

"I think you might see -- and I hope you will see -- some withdrawing by Congress so the states might be able to live and some backing up from the proposals made in the poverty program," he remarked.

The states are banding together through the Council of State Governments in an attempt to counter the federal encroachments, Sen. Spradling said. He has been active in that organization.

Increased attention to what is happening in Washington will be necessary, he said.

"It will be necessary to follow legislation, to hammer on congressmen and hammer on U.S. senators," Sen. Spradling remarked.

Congress was shaken, he said, by the adoption last year by 21 state legistures of a resolution which would have reversed the effects of Baker vs. Carr, the landmark reapportionment decision which has forced many states, including Missouri, to change the character of their legislatures.

On that point, Sen. Spradling said such proposed legislation as horse-racing and liquor on Sunday have a better chance of passage than in the past because of the reapportioned House of Representatives.

"We will probably get a test vote soon on one of these bills," the senator observed.

He pointed out that Kansas City and St. Louis are making bids for the state to pay their police departments.

"This will be the test this year," Sen. Spradling said.

On other issues, Sen. Spradling made these points:

Toll roads - Mail from this area is running heavily in support of the measure, by which southeast Missouri would probably be connected to the central part of the state.

Congressional reapportionment - Jefferson County and southern St. Louis County are no more interested in being in the 10th district than southeast Missouri is in having them. The senator said the result could be alternating rural and urban congressmen, with the district never accumulating seniority.

The banking revision - It was perfected this week after the branch banking amendment was killed. The code includes more modern features as well as securities and insurance codes.

The 150-page bill, Senate Bill 1 sponsored by Sen. Spradling, was pre-printed, he said, as part of an experiment in expediting the legislative process.

Sen. Spradling was flown to Cape Girardeau Wednesday for the Lions Club appearance and then returned by air to the state capital, where he had a committee hearing at 3 o'clock.

In charge of the program Wednesday was Maurice T. Dunklin.

Mississippi Governor's Wife Declines to Run

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) - Mrs. Paul B. Johnson Jr., wife of the Mississippi governor, dismissed speculation she might seek to succeed her husband in office, as happened in neighboring Alabama.

The 53-year-old First Lady of Mississippi told a news conference that her first duty was to her husband.

Mrs. Johnson said she had heard of the "Dot for governor" talk before Lurleen Wallace was elected governor of Alabama to succeed her husband, George. Mrs. Johnson said Mrs. Wallace "urged me to run."

Her news conference was hastily called after "Draft Dot Johnson for Governor" stickers appeared in Jackson.

Johnson, a Democrat, is barred by his state's constitution from seeking a second straight term, as was Wallace.

Court Hears New Use for Marijuana

HOUSTON, Tex. AP - James Ashton Tetlow, 41, pleaded guilty to a narcotics charge, saying he needed the marijuana to whip up a batch of cookies.

Tetlow said he first tasted marijuana cookies while working as a ship's cook off the coast of Acapulco, Mexico.

Jerald D. Mize, Tetlow's lawyer, said his client told him he ate five or six one morning while fixing breakfast, promptly went to sleep and stayed asleep through lunchtime.

Tetlow said he bought half a pound of marijuana in Mexico to bring home and try the recipe himself.

He will be sentenced after probation officers conduct an investigation.

"I've been on the bench for a long time but I never heard anything like that before," said U. S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Connally.

FINDING THE WAY

What Music Is Profane?

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It is a surprising, though understandable, edict which came from the Vatican, banning certain forms of music, especially that which is known as the "jazz mass." Surprising, because we had just become accustomed to the most revolutionary liturgical reforms. Understandable because jazz is noisy, discordant and strange to the uninitiated. In addition, it is more of a solo or concert form of music, in contrast to that expression which lends itself to congregational participation.

Nonetheless, there was a syncopated phrase in the edict. It referred to "music of a totally profane and worldly character." Yet the whole point of the Christian faith is that God is speaking in human flesh. It is a religion of the Incarnation. It is the invasion of that which men called the profane and the worldly, clothing it with new meaning.

As a result, some of our greatest chorales and hymns came into the church by way of taverns and public gatherings which were profane. The tunes of the people at play became also the tunes of the people at worship. Then, just as in the Old Testament, cymbals, tymbrels, dulcimers, bagpipes and flutes became the gladsome praise of the Lord.

Sidney Lanier said that "Music is love in search of a word." Some of it doesn't sound that way to my ears. Yet are we to dimension this desire to speak to the contemporary man who finds in this discordant statement that which witnesses more than the Gregorian chant or a Bach chorale sings to my ears?

Staid Westerners are accustomed to sitting in pews and being quiet observers; the Orthodox in Greece and Russia enjoy motion, with people walking about, kissing icons, participating instead of observing. What is disturbing to a Westerner is normal to another; what would be understandable in one situation would become dull conformity in another. The joyous "beat" of some congregations may be strange to the unaccustomed but the lack of an exultant "Hallelujah" or an echoing "Amen" would make it a dull experience to others.

Obviously it is proper for any church to determine the norm of its forms of worship. Yet we must also know that the Gospel must be communicated in this profane and worldly situation which we know as our environment. Into this world, the Word is shared. It might just be that the profane and worldly music could be the swaddling clothes!

The Prayer From The Upper Room

"The tax collector...beat his breast, saying, 'God, be merciful to me a sinner!" (Luke 18:13, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear Father, break the barrier of sin and deliver us from darkness and death. Save us and help us, we pray, that we may be disciples worthy of the name "Christian." For Jesus' sake.....Amen.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: I thought I had heard everything when all those nuts wrote in to tell you they sang at their own weddings and "everyone just loved it." Today I ran across some more evidence that people are getting buggier by the minute:

I see by the South Portland-Cape Elizabeth Journal that commencement exercises were held for dogs. The place was packed with proud "parents."

Down the aisle pranced a poodle, a collie, a Doberman, and so on - all wearing the traditional mortar board with hanging tassels. These dogs had completed their obedience classes and were presented with ribbon-tied diplomas. Their masters were as puffed up as if a son or daughter had made Phi Beta Kappa.

I am enclosing the newspaper story, complete with picture to prove that I am not hung over from New Year's. Thank you - STEADY READER

Dear Steady: To those who insist that education is going to the dogs, what better proof do you need? Thanks for my laugh for the day.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a boy 17 years old. My parents were divorced two years ago. Last year my mother remarried. My stepfather was very good to me until he began to slap my mother around. When I tried to protect her he would get mad at me for butting in and I'd catch it, too.

One night he knocked out Mom's two front teeth and she left him. Two months later they made up, he paid for some more new teeth, and then he knocked them out. They went back together three days before Christmas, but on Christmas Eve he hit her again. I told Mom if she went back to him again I was going to live with my Dad and his new wife.

I packed and left, only to find that my Dad and stepmother were fighting just like Mom and her second husband. I miss my school and my friends and I want to go back home but I can't decide if I should. Please tell me what to do. - BATTLE FATIGUE

Dear "B.F." It sounds as if one place is as bad as the other, and there's nothing you can do about it, so you might as well be with your friends and schoolmates.

It's a sad commentary when a 17-year-old boy has to write such a letter. I hope every pair of battling parents reads it and feels ashamed.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for seven years. We have three children.

I feel like I am living in the dark ages. My husband refuses to allow me to wear shorts in the summer or stretch pants in the winter. All the other young wives in the neighborhood dress this way and nobody thinks anything about it. My husbnd says he is against such clothing for religious reasons.

Religion is just as important to me as it is to him and I don't see anything sacrilegious about shorts or stretch pants.

What are your ideas on this? Thank you. - TEXAS WOMAN

Dear Woman: Some women look terrible in shorts and stretch pants and their husbands are opposed to them for this reason.

I say if a husband is opposed to shorts and stretch pants for ANY reason, a wife should respect his wishes. There are plenty of attractive skirts you can wear - and I hope you will.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 35¢ in coin.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

THE CASE OF THE BARBECUED LOVERS

Rodger's blooming romance was going to blooming pot under public observation. Consequently, he took his girl friend and drove to a neighboring town where he registered with her at a hotel as man and wife. Unfortunately, however, fate continued to observe him through a jaundiced eye. While things got pretty hot that night, it wasn't due to Rodger's jinxed romance. On the contrary, it was due to the carelessness of the hotel owner who very inconsiderately burned down the hotel.

Emerging from the ashes, Rodger and his would-be Juliet sued the hotel owner for the injuries.

"Being guests in his hotel," Rodger told the judge, "he had a duty to exercise care for our safety."

"Guest, my foot!" retorted the owner. "Since they were in my hotel under false pretenses, as man and wife, they were trespassers and not guests. I owed them no duty."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider Rodger a lodger so as to permit him and his girlfriend to collect?

This is how the Judge ruled: He sided with Rodger. In doing so, he held that false registration at a hotel does not effect the status of the occupants as guests of the hotel owner.

My friend's four-year-old boy Kevin sat admiring my little daughter's doll. Susan had made a nun's habit for it and was pinning a black net shawl over the doll's shoulders.

Kevin, obviously trying to think of something nice to say about it, reached over, fingered the shawl, and said, "What a lovely shawl! Such beautiful holes!"

Nothing keeps a good man down

(like a too-small education.)

It's sad. But true! Unless you've got a good education, you haven't got what it takes . . . to move up in the world today. Fact is, opportunities are few and far between for people who settle for less than a good education.

Don't let it happen to you. Get a good education while the getting's good . . . before you start to work. A good education qualifies you for a better job . . . a better salary . . . a better future, too.

So, if you're in school now . . . stay there! Learn all you can for as long as you can. If you're out of school, don't forget that there's plenty of valuable training available outside the classroom. For details, visit the Youth Counsellor at your State Employment Service. Remember, a good education isn't a luxury today. It's an absolute necessity.

To get a good job, get a good education

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Feb. 14, the 45th day of 1967. There are 320 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1778, the flag of the United States was first saluted by a foreign nation. The ship "Ranger", commanded by Capt. John Paul Jones, gave a 13 gun salute to the French flag as the vessel entered Quiberon Bay, France. The French returned the salute.

On this date:

In 1859, George Ferris, inventor of the Ferris wheel, was born.

Also in 1859, Oregon was admitted to the union.

In 1903, Congress created a General Staff Corps and provided for the appointment of a chief of staff of the U.S. Army.

Also in 1903, the Department of Commerce and Labor was created.

In 1912, Arizona was admitted to the union.

Ten years ago - Robert Tripp Ross, assistant secretary of defense for legislation and public affairs, resigned his post, saying his future effectiveness had been impaired. This because of newspaper reports of a Senate investigation of an Army contract awarded to his wife's firm. Ross denied any conflict of interest or violation of the law or of the ethical code.

Five years ago - the Council of the Organization of American States formally completed the exclusion of Cuba from participation in the affairs of the organization.

One year ago - Two Soviet writers were convicted by a Russian court of harming the Communist regime of the Soviet Union in books published abroad. The two were given long sentences in a Soviet labor camp.

"It's no sign of household drudgery," said Denis Smith, 17, a Los Angeles high school senior. "Anyway I think a woman's place is in the home. It's kind of like an engagement ring. I wouldn't mind getting one myself."

"What? A big spoon!" exclaimed Margaret McDonough, of Miami, Fla., an airline stewardess. "Well, it's a fine idea, I guess, but it wouldn't work so well now. It's the thought that counts and it depends on who sends something. Just send her a card - if not a card, then a phone call."

"savagely raided" but gave no details.

The first Navy action off North Vietnam after the six-day cessation also came before dawn today when the destroyer Cunningham reported it set three cargo craft afire 18 miles north of Dong Hoi.

The Navy said North Vietnamese shore batteries on islands near the city of Vinh opened fire later in the day on the destroyer Strauss. The destroyer suffered no damage, fired back and the batteries ceased fire, the Navy reported.

In addition to the record number of fighter-bomber strikes in South Vietnam Monday, Air Force B52s flew in from Guam for three strikes Monday night and today against suspected enemy positions in the south.

Monday night they pounded a target 16 miles southwest of Da Nang and another one about 310 miles north of Saigon. This morning they struck an enemy base camp 12 miles south of Hue.

The Air Force, announcing its pilots flew a record 378 sorties in the south, said bombs triggered four large secondary explosions.

Marine pilots flew an additional 157 sorties, U.S. spokesmen said.

U.S. authorities also announced that units of the 101st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade have killed 25 guerrillas and rounded up 24 suspects since opening Operation Gatling 2 Feb. 5 about 98 miles northeast of Saigon.

peace is and will remain open and we are prepared at any time to go more than halfway to meet any equitable overture from the other side."

Officials reiterated this meant North Vietnam must scale down its military operations if U.S. bombing of the north is to be halted.

It appeared logical, sources said, that U.S. bombing attacks would be intensified in the next few days or weeks in an effort to eliminate advantages Viet Cong and North Vietnamese fighting units may have gained during the 138-hour bombing lull.

During the past week, Secretary of State Dean Rusk emphasized the United States would not halt the bombing of North Vietnam without some reciprocal move by the Communists.

Long Offers Privacy Act

WASHINGTON -- U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long (D-Missouri) introduced the right of privacy act to protect American citizens from government and private wiretapping and electronic bugging.

Senator Long said the bill as recommended by President Johnson in his state of the union and crime messages "will make illegal all wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping with the exception of national security matters."

The bill will also make illegal the advertisement, manufacture or shipment of wiretapping and eavesdropping devices. Penalty under this provision is a $25,000 fine or one year in prison, or both.

Under present law, "the department of justice felt it could not prosecute state and local officers for wiretapping even when they have publicly violated Section 605 (of the Federal Communications Act of 1934)" Senator Long said.

Senator Long pointed out that there is no federal law on bugging or other forms of electronic snooping.

Long said, based on two years of investigations by his senate subcommittee, anarchy has existed because of the lack of clear laws on wiretapping and snooping. "Electronic anarchy has existed and the victim has been the American people," Senator Long said.

"In 1934, Congress enacted the federal communications act of which section 605 prohibited the interception and divulgence of telephone calls," Senator Long said.

"In 1937, the supreme court held that section 605 applied to law enforcement officers as well as private citizens. But, in 1941, the justice department came up with a unique and strained interpretation of section 605," Senator Long said. "The attorney general held that a violation of Section 605 required both interception and divulgence outside the government." he said.

"Thus," Senator Long said, "government agents could wiretap so long as the government did not divulge wiretap information in the courts."

"This rule, as a practical matter cut the heart out of Section 605. It opened the door to Federal law enforcement wiretapping," Senator Long said.

Long said that while other Administrations had sought laws permitting wiretapping and eavesdropping, President Johnson "is supporting a bill to strengthen the statutory protection of the citizen's right of privacy."

Senator Long promised to hold hearings on the new right of privacy act "within the near future."

Fortas to Deliver Lecture in Law

COLUMBIA, MO. (AP) - The 1967 Earl F. Nelson Lecture in Law will be delivered the night of April 5 at the University of Missouri by Abe Fortas, associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The memorial lectures were established in 1954 in honor of the late Earl F. Nelson, who was a member of the Missouri Law School Foundation and the school's board of curators.
